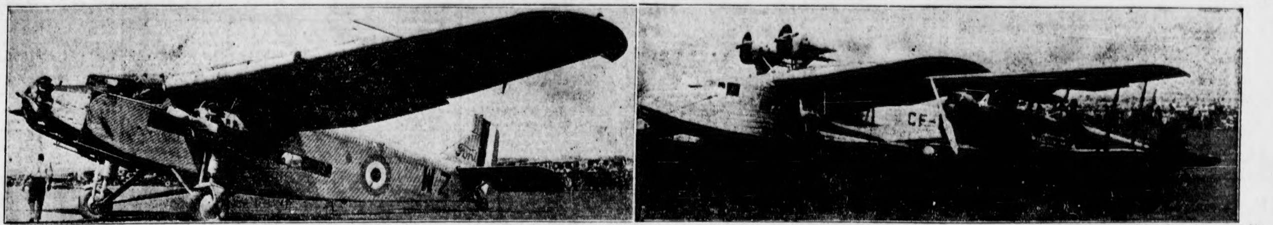
UNEMPLOYMENT AND FARM RELIEF INTRODUCED

Federal Action on Beauharnois Asked in Report

TWO AIR GIANTS AND A TINY "STUNT SHIP" WHICH ARE FEATURES OF TODAY'S AIR PAGEANT



At left is shown the big all-metal Tri-Motored Ford troop carrier, which carries 16 passengers in addition to the pilot. This plane is part of the R.C.A.F. flight, being transport ship for the Siskin fighters. This huge eagle of the air is flown by Flight Sergeant G. T. Elliott and the ease and gracefulness with which it lands, takes off, and manoeuvres in the air is a feature of the day's flying.

In the centre is shown the Saro-Cloud, the amphibian in which Mayor J. M. Douglas flew back to Edmonton from Calgary. The big plane is one of the strangest machines yet seen on the prairies. It can alight on both land and water, and is powered by two radial engines. It's another big feature of the day's show and is piloted by Romeo Vachon of Montreal.

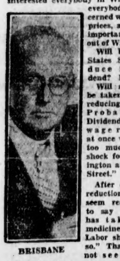
At right, tucked under the wing of the Saro-Cloud is the speedy Fairchild 21, the fast little wasp of the air which is put through its paces by Captain Bernard Martin, premier stunt pilot of the tour. The Fairchild 21 is a spectacular performer, with a 110 h.p. engine, and is one of the biggest attractions of the flying circus.

Today

Big Steel.
Wall Street Sad.
Primitive Human.
Disturbing Shaw.

—By Arthur Brisbane—
(Copyright, 1931)

"WHAT will big steel do at Tuesday's meeting?" That question interested everybody in Wall street, everybody concerned with stock prices, and more important things out of Wall street.



BRISBANE

Will United States Steel reduce its dividend? Probably.

Will any step be taken toward reducing wages? Probably not. Dividend and wage reduction at once would be too much of a shock for Washington and "The Street."

After dividend reduction it may seem reasonable to say "Capital has taken its medicine and Labor should do so." That will not seem convincing to Labor.

A dividend reduction to 5 percent will not be taken seriously by any but "jumpy" stock speculators.

Steel sold as low as 89⅝ Monday and closed at 92⅜.

Leaving out past performances, 5 percent is a good return on a stock at that price.

Those that sell, and are able to hold, will regret it, and bang their heads on the bedpost when good times come back.

MR. LAMONT, U.S. Secretary of Commerce, says corporations hit hard cannot reasonably be asked to refrain from wage cuts. It needs no ghost come from the grave to tell you that a man who hasn't the money to meet the pay roll, can't meet it.

It was a sad, slow day in Wall street, by the way, although money

PART PLAYED BY SENATORS IS CONDEMNED

Development of Project Should be Procured to Best Advantage

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Ont., July 29—Action by parliament of Canada to procure the development of the Beauharnois project in such a manner as will best serve the people of the Dominion is urged in the report of the select committee of the house of commons which investigated this undertaking. Such action should not prejudice the rights of the province of Quebec. Should the rights of the Dominion and the province come in conflict every effort should be put forth to arrive at a satisfactory agreement so that the project may not be imperilled by delay.

These outstanding recommendations featured the report of the committee which was tabled in the house of commons Tuesday night by the chairman, Hon. W. A. Gordon, minister of immigration and mines. The report was unanimous.

Condemnation of the part played by Senator Andrew Haydon, Ottawa, Senator Wilfred Laurier McDougald.

NAUTILUS IS NOW HEADING FOR NORWAY

ABOARD SUBMARINE NAUTILUS AT SEA, July 28.—Leaving Devonport dock yards at 7:15 a.m. Tuesday (2:15 a.m. E.S.T.), the submarine Nautilus swung down the harbor on the way to Bergen, Norway and the North Pole. We discharged the pilot outside the breakwater of Plymouth, and with both engines running, proceeded on our course to Bergen at 4 p.m. Greenwich time, (noon E.D.T.) we were seventy miles from Plymouth, abreast of Portland. The engines seem to be in splendid order. The crew is busy tidying up their quarters and everything looks hopeful for a fairly quick trip into the north.

Weather is fine and the sea moderate. I think chances are bright. We

FRENCH SUPPORT POUND STERLING

May Prevent "Gold Bullion Profiteering"

Associated Press Cable

PARIS, July 29.—French bankers have confirmed reports that conferences during the past few days between Sir Robert Kindersley, a director of the Bank of England, and Clement Moret, governor of the Bank of France, served to prepare a plan for continued French support of the pound sterling.

The method adopted, it is understood, consists in the Bank of France rediscounting commercial paper which already has been rediscounted and guaranteed by the Bank of England. Other measures are understood to be under consideration to prevent what has been called "gold bullion profiteering" by buying gold in London and selling it in Paris.

BEAUHARNOIS HIGHLIGHTS

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Ont., July 29.—Highlights of the Beauharnois report.

The House of Commons committee on Beauharnois recommends:

That parliament procure the Beauharnois development in a manner best suited to the interests of Canada, without prejudicing Quebec's rights.

That an agreement between the Dominion and Quebec should be arranged, if there is conflict between the two, so that the project may not be imperilled.

That navigation rights and the Dominion's jurisdiction of these be preserved.

The committee's report finds:

That R. A. C. Henry, vice-president of Beauharnois, does not commend himself as a fit and proper person to continue in the management of Beauharnois.

BOTH INVOLVED

That both Mr. Henry and H. B. Griffith, secretary-treasurer of Beauharnois, were involved in the "misuse" of the company's funds for campaign purposes.

That the fee of $50,000 and annual retainer of $15,000 to the legal firm of Senator Andrew Haydon "is strongly condemned."

That Senator Haydon received over $500,000 for campaign purposes, while

Trouble With Fire Alarm in Chief's House

Canadian Press

ST. THOMAS, Ont., July 29.—For four weeks or more the fire alarm system on the north side of the city has been out of commission. Fire Chief Jack Miterla has had a force of men out daily endeavoring to locate the trouble. Last night he reported the trouble had been discovered.

"Where was the trouble?" he was asked.

The chief hesitated. "It was in my own house," he answered. "A fuse was blown during the severe storm about a month ago."

Interested Canadians from student ranks to older residents comprise the party, which will follow the Kettle Valley route to Vancouver and return by Banff, Lake Louise, Calgary, Edmonton, Winnipeg and the Great Lakes.

Revenue Amendm't Act Passes House

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Ont., July 29.—Government bill amending the special war revenue act so as to give legal sanction to budget changes, passed the House of Commons Tuesday.

Third reading of the measure was prefaced by the introduction of a number of amendments, in the committee stage, the majority of which were of a minor nature. Bank cheques, money orders and travellers' cheques of five dollars and under are exempted from the stamp tax by one of these amendments.

FLOODS TAKING HEAVY TOLL IN CENTRAL CHINA

Thousands Are Reported Dead in Worst Storms in 60 Years

Associated Press Cable

SHANGHAI, July 29.—Vast areas of Central China were under water today. Hundreds, perhaps thousands, were dead and the prices of foodstuffs soared 30 per cent in many cities as the result of one of the worst floods in 60 years.

Crops were severely damaged, presaging a terrible famine during the coming fall and winter.

An accurate estimate of the death toll could not be attempted because of disrupted communications. It was known that hundreds died in the Wuhan area, comprising the cities of Hankow, Hanyang and Wuchang, when dykes burst their bounds.

A report that 5,000 perished in the Changsha, Honan province district, was considered exaggerated.

SETTLEMENTS INUNDATED

The foreign settlements of Hankow were inundated, but there were no casualities among the residents. The 800 foreigners comprising these settle-

TWO PLANES ROARING WAY OVER OCEAN

Both Last Sighted High Over Newfoundland on Tuesday

Associated Press Cable

VALENCIE, Ireland, July 29.—No authentic reports on the whereabouts of the United States trans-Atlantic flyers had been received here this afternoon, a thick mist hindering visibility.

An unidentified aeroplane was reported heard over Port Magee in County Kerry in mid-afternoon, while Knightstown, Valentia Island, shortly afterward reported hearing a plane going southeast. Identification of these planes was impossible.

Nearly 30 hours had elapsed since the Moscow and Istanbul-bound ships had left New York yesterday.

Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 29.—Two powerful monoplanes, each carrying two more candidates for trans-Atlantic honors, were presumably flying into the clear and calm ocean airway towards Europe today.

"Prof." Says Vernon Booher Was Innocent

Despite Confession Self-styled Mind Reader Says Wrong Man Was Hanged

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

VEGREVILLE, July 29.—Despite the fact that Vernon Booher, 23-year-old Mannville youth who was executed at Fort Saskatchewan on April 24, 1930, as the slayer of his mother, brother and two hired men, is alleged to have confessed the crime "Professor" Gladstone, credited with the solving of one murder mystery in Saskatchewan and believed by many to be gifted with extraordinary powers of telepathy and mind-reading, electrified an audience here last night by declaring that the Booher boy was innocent. He named another party as the actual slayer, declaring that young Booher was the "scapegoat" for the other.

Another startling reply to an unspoken question came when a neighbor of a farmer who has disappeared, asked if this man had been hacked to pieces and burned in a straw pile, the blaze of which lit the countryside the night of the disappearance.

By alleged mind reading or mental telepathy, the "Professor" recited the unspoken question. He gave details of the family life and the inside story of the disappearance, said to be known only to neighbors up till then.

Edmonton Is All Set for Gigantic Aerial Exhibition

Siskin Fighters Thrill Large Crowd With "Warming-up" Stunts Tuesday P.M.—Two More Ships Coming

With all but two of the aeroplanes with the All-Canadian Air Pageant already in the city, and these two reporting from Calgary this morning that they were on their way and would be here in plenty of time to take part in this evening's performance, Edmonton is all set for the greatest aerial display yet staged in this section of the Dominion.

That it will be just that was evident on Tuesday afternoon when the famous Siskin flight of the Royal Canadian Air Force went through a few preliminary "warming-up" stunts while waiting for the civilian planes to arrive here from Calgary.

A LITTLE APPETIZER

Silver Siskins slithering in a sun-lit summer sky. Or Siskins racketing and roaring through space, screaming defiance to all the laws of gravity.

No matter how you say it, the difficulty still remains how to adequately express the impression the flight of Siskin fighters made upon the spectators at the municipal air field.

It was just a little appetizer, offered by the air force to whet the taste of the public for the big show on Wednesday evening.

And how the crowd enjoyed it! The sight of the planes, first flying in perfect formation over the field and city, then breaking ranks and carrying out the most audacious stunts, roused the crowd to the greatest pitch of enthusiasm and keyed everyone up to a tremendous anticipation for the program of Wednesday evening.

The military pilots rolled, looped,

The birthday celebration plans were simple, including no provision for the receipt of gifts, for Mussolini does not like personal presents.

FIVE CHILDREN FALL VICTIMS TO GANGSTERS

Intended Victim Escapes Unscathed From Hail of Lead in New York

Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 29—The shooting of five innocent children in a Harlem beer feud late yesterday, turned into a murder hunt today as five-year-old Michael Vengali, one of the victims, died in hospital.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney, notified of the child's death sent a dozen detective squads into action with orders to bring in every beer racketeer in the city for questioning.

Four other children are still undergoing hospital treatment for bullet wounds. One more may die. The victims, ranging in ages from three to 14 years, were playing on the heat-blistered sidewalks of East 107th street when an unidentified touring cvar rolled to the curb and sprayed the Hetmar Social Club, a pool room, with a hail of lead.

The intended victim of the gunmen, described by police as a beer racketeer who had "muscled" in on new territory, escaped.

MOOT LIBERAL SPLIT IN EAST

House Leader Declines to Comment on Situation

Canadian Press

TORONTO, Ont., July 29.—The Mail and Empire today said "decided coolness between Liberal members in the Federal and Provincial houses on the one hand, and the Ontario Liberal Association on the other, will develop shortly into a wide open split, according to information from the party ranks.

"Members of parliament and officers of the association refused openly to acknowledge the prospect of a definite breach, but enough was said to indicate which way the wind was blowing.

"Dr. George A. McQuibban, M.L.A. for Wellington North-East, said he had no doubt there was plenty of truth in the rumor that federal members were splitting from the Ontario organization and that 'there would likely be lots of information obtainable at an early date.'

"W. E. N. Sinclair, house leader, refused to comment on the rumor. Mitchell Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, likewise refused to commit himself one way or the other."

British House Ploughs Way Through Estimates

WEARY LOOK ON FACES OF ALL MEMBERS

Commons Starts Annual Tramp Through Division Lobbies of Supply

By GEORGE HAMBLETON,
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 29.—Members of the House of Commons began last night their long annual tramp through the division lobbies of supply.

The mother of parliaments allots 20 days each year to supply—the voting of the money which makes the wheels of government go round. During those 20 days the particular votes covering the broad field of government policy and administration are selected and discussed. Then at the end of the allotted period comes the actual vote. Every time a division is challenged the members record their votes by tramping into the division lobbies and out again. Some years the weary commoners tramp for hours on end.

As the House today ploughed through the various estimates it had the tired look that precedes the coming summer recess. Members, tangled in the intricacies of procedure, vainly sought to discuss the questions of motion picture censorship and the increasing crime problem under the vote for the home office.

In the crowded discussion there were references to "queer fish who are both Russian and British at the same time." A Conservative raised a passing storm when he referred to a Labor member as "the Honorable Colonel with the musical voice from somewhere in Wales." The Welsh member protested at what he considered an insult to his country but the House laughed unfeelingly and turned again to supply.

have had bad luck, and perhaps that was all the ill fortune that was coming to us. It was better we had it in the Atlantic than in the Arctic.

3 DAYS AT BERGEN

We should reach Bergen by Saturday, and we will leave there not later than next Tuesday. Three days journey should get us to Tromsoe where we will delay only a few hours to refuel and then head into the Arctic sea. If the ice conditions are as expected, we will set a course to the right of Bear Island, keeping well outside Spitzbergen, but not calling there because of the drift of pack ice, which is usually close to the shore at this time of year. We can reasonably expect to go 100 miles or more north of Spitzbergen before encountering any ice under which we will have to dive. It has been possible on occasion to go 200 miles north of Spitzbergen before encountering any amount of pack ice.

From reports received, this year seems to be one in which ice is scarce. If this is so, we are likely to be within 400 miles of the North Pole before having to take our submarine under water. We ought to reach this point before the middle of August, and if the ship is up to expectations, we should make at least 500 miles a day under the ice and reach the Pole about August 25th.

This would give us ample time to spend two or three days of scientific investigation and then return to Spitzbergen on a circuitous route. Even after coming out of the ice so late in the season, we expect to do a great deal of scientific research along the northeast of Greenland at least until the end of September.

Our movements will be partly governed by reports or Arctic conditions brought back by Lincoln Ellsworth, the explorer, who is at present a passenger aboard the Graf Zeppelin in its exploration flight within the Arctic Circle.

I hope Ellsworth may deliver his report to us before we leave Norway.

ments were forced to make their way about the streets in sampans (Chinese boats).

The Hankow correspondent of the Associated Press reported the Yangtse river at that point had risen higher than ever before in the history of modern records. He said the stream was still rising.

Telegraphic appeals poured into Nanking, the Nationalist capitol, from scores of cities throughout the great Central China basin, indicating the widespread nature of the calamity. Nanking itself was partially submerged and thousands were made homeless.

Famine conditions already were reported from Wuhu, Anhwei province, where rice boats were looted by hungry mobs.

Heavy rains have fallen over Central China almost continuously for the last fortnight. All the large rivers in this area have risen steadily until they overflowed their banks. These include the Yangtse, Siang, Yellow and Hwai rivers, the Grand canal, and even the Min river, in distant Tukien province.

The affected area embraces a population of about 200,000,000.

The entire Yangtse valley below Ichang was stricken. Probably the most serious conditions prevailed in the Hankow, Wuchang, Hanyang area and in Anhwei provinces.

Ts'nanfu, Pengfu and Hsuchowfu were flooded in the north, causing suspension of service on the Tientsin-Pukow railway.

Customs Act Is Amended Tuesday

OTTAWA, Ont., July 29—Because of legal conflict over Canada's jurisdiction beyond the three-mile limit, the house of commons Tuesday accepted an amendment to the Customs act suggested by the senate. Whether the act was enforceable beyond the three-mile limit was being determined by the Privy Council, said Premier R. B. Bennett and the senate amendment would clarify this situation pending judgment.

Montreal, and criticism of Senator Donat Raymond, Montreal, constitutes striking points in the report.

HENRY UNFIT

Dealing with prominent figures in the Beauharnois corporation, the committee suggests that R. A. C. Henry, vice-president and general manager, is not "a fit and proper person to continue in the management of this great public utility." R. O. Sweezey, president, is dealt with at length in connection with campaign fund contributions, and the declaration is made that he in association with H. B. Griffith and at least two other unnamed directors, "Was the instrument by which approximately $300,000 of the company's funds was misused, as he alleges for campaign purposes."

Personal contributions by Mr. Sweezey to campaign funds which, the committee finds, according to the evidence, amounted to approximately $700,000, are given special reference. The committee finds that no pretence is made that the personal subscriptions were because of the adherence of Mr. Sweezey to any particular party, "and we are of the opinion that they were shamelessly, wastefully and needlessly made for the express purpose of obtaining favorable consideration of the company's proposals to the government," states the report.

Mr. Griffith, as well as Mr. Henry, according to the report, is involved in the "misuse" of company funds for campaign purposes.

NOT SATISFACTORY

Evidence given by J. B. Hunter, deputy-minister of public works, and Kenneth M. Cameron, chief engineer of that department, was not considered satisfactory. The evidence of neither of these officers "appears to be given in the manner which one might expect from departmental officials," the report states.

No evidence was adduced, the committee finds, to indicate that any of the $125,000 paid in bonds to John Aird, jr., Toronto, reached any political organization or any person authorized to receive campaign funds. The report goes at length into the transaction whereby Mr. Griffith, at the direction of Mr. Sweezey, paid $125,000 to John Aird. After reviewing the evidence the committee states that Mr. Aird insisted that he belonged to no political organization and that the arrangement between him and Mr. Sweezey was purely a personal one. The statement of Mr. Aird, the committee reports, is supported by the evidence of various bank officials.

Dealing with the connection of Senator Andrew Haydon with the Beauharnois project the report states that the Senator was known to Mr. Sweezey to be a member of the Liberal party who collected campaign funds. When Mr. Sweezey applied to the firm of McGiverin, Haydon and Ebbs in connection with the project it was arranged that the firm would be paid the sum of $50,000 conditionally upon approval of the application by the Governor-in-Council.

"The order-in-council was approved," proceeds the report "Senator Haydon's firm was paid $50,000 and thereafter received several cheques in pursuance of the agreement made with Mr. Sweezey by which that firm was to be paid a retainer of $15,000 per year.

"Senator Haydon was a man of note and standing in his party," the report continued, "and was recognized as one of the official organizers of the Liberal party in Canada.

STRONGLY CONDEMNED

"In these circumstances, your committee is of opinion that the acceptance of the above-mentioned contingent retainer and of the $300,000 involved, and of the campaign funds by Senator Haydon cannot be defended and is strongly condemned."

Stating that Senator Wilfred Laurier McDougald occupied the position of chairman of the Montreal Harbor Board and assumed the position of high responsibility in connection with the development of the St. Lawrence deep waterway, the report goes at length into Mr. McDougald's association with the project.

The report proceeds:

"How one holding the high offices to which he had been called as chairman of the Montreal Harbor Board, member of the national advisory committee of the St. Lawrence waterway, a senator of Canada, and member of the special committee of the senate, and as he himself had stated, having a high regard for his public duties, should allow his private interest to so interfere with his public duty that he found it necessary, speaking from his place in the senate, to be 'ambiguous' and incorrect, it is difficult for your committee to understand."

"Senator McDougald's actions in respect to the Beauharnois project cannot be too strongly condemned."

"It is also significant that Senator McDougald received considerable sums of money from the company for travelling expenses."

The third member of the senate to be dealt with—Senator Donat Raymond—is criticized for lack of frankness in respect to a contribution of $200,000 by Mr. Sweezey to campaign funds of the Liberal party.

MISUSE OF FUNDS

The report finds that the connection of R.A.C. Henry "with Senator McDougald and their success in dispoiling the company of a large sum of money or money's worth for something that on the evidence was entirely worthless, does not commend him to your committee as a fit and proper person to continue in the management of this great public utility."

Mr. Henry, as general manager of the Beauharnois project, and H. B. Griffith as secretary-treasurer and director of the Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company are involved, the committee considers, in the "misuse" of company funds for campaign purposes.

Condemnation is expressed on the receipt by Senator Andrew Haydon's legal firm of $50,000 and several cheques in pursuance of an arrangement made with Mr. Sweezey by which the firm was to be paid a retainer of $15,000 a year.

The committee is of the opinion that the acceptance of the above-mentioned retainer and of the $50,000 involved and of the campaign funds by Senator Haydon "cannot be defended and is strongly condemned."

Senator Haydon, the report declares, was a man of note and standing in his party and was recognized as one of the official organizers of the Liberal party in Canada. Senator Haydon, the report continues, became the recipient from Mr. Sweezey and the Beauharnois company of sums of money for campaign purposes, said to be in excess of $500,000 "and it is also to be noted that throughout this firm did not render any detailed bill for professional services."

CRITICISM EXPRESSED

Criticism of Senator Donat Raymond for not disclosing his receipt from Mr. Sweezy of some $200,000 of campaign funds for the Liberal party, is expressed. "The commendable frankness would seem to require," the report states, "that Senator Raymond should have disclosed this to the committee if he wished the committee to understand that he was stating fairly his connection between the government and the Beauharnois promoters."

The report goes on: "In view of Mr. Sweezey's attitude throughout and his views as to the necessity for political influence, it is hardly conceivable that Mr. Sweezey would pay this large sum of money over to Senator Raymond unless he at least was satisfied that the Senator's influence had been or would be worth the money, and it is remarkable that Senator Raymond did not insist on making some explanation of his position in this regard, in view of this evidence."

The actions of Senator Wilfred Laurier McDougald in respect to the Beauharnois project "cannot be too strongly condemned," the report finds after an exhaustive summary of his evidence before the committee and reference to his statements in the Senate.

Evidence given by J. B. Hunter, deputy minister of public works, and K. M. Cameron, chief engineer of that department, is not considered satisfactory. "The committee desires to state," the document says, "that the evidence of neither of these officers appeared to be given in the manner which one might expect from department officials."

The committee goes into the connection of R. O. Sweezey with the Beauharnois project at great length. The report refers to him as the principal promoter of the Beauharnois project and the present president of the Beauharnois Power Corporation, Limited.

After quoting evidence as to the political associations which Mr. Sweezey cultivated, the report proceeds: "It is obvious therefore that from the very threshold of this undertaking he had in mind that he had to associate with him men who could exert influence in political circles at Ottawa and at Quebec."

The report states that Mr. Sweezey succeeded in enlisting the help first of Senator Raymond, then Hon. Walter Mitchell, then Frank P. Jones and finally Senator McDougald.

"Mr. Sweezey was also, in association with Mr. H. B. Griffith and at least two other unnamed directors, the instrument by which $300,000 of the company's funds were misused, as he alleges, for campaign purposes. This is surely contrary to the purposes for which these monies were borrowed from the public through the issue and sale of the company's bonds."

The report contains no definite recommendation in respect to Mr. Sweezey. It contents itself with detailing at length the history of contributions to campaign funds by Sweezey as recorded in the evidence.

"Your committee considers that returns should be made immediately of any monies improperly taken from the companies' funds for political subscriptions by those responsible for their extraction," the report proceeds.

"It is also to be observed that no pretense is made that the personal subscriptions were because of the adherence of Mr. Sweezey to any political party and we are of the opinion that they were shamelessly, wastefully and needlessly made for the expressed purpose of obtaining favorable consideration of the company's proposals to the government," the report states.

The committee finds that the work of construction of the Beauharnois canal is proceeding according to plans "which have not received the approval of the Governor-in-Council or of the Minister of Public Works."

The report states that the committee is impressed with the need for some means of control at the entrance of the canal.

"From a physical standpoint a power development on the south shore of the Soulanges section of the St. Lawrence river is fundamentally sound with proper safeguards," the committee asserts.

Any ambiguity in respect to the 40,000 cubic feet per second diversion, as expressed in the order-in-council, should be removed, declares the report.

JAIL-BREAKERS CAPTURED BY ARMED FORCE

Are Apprehended by Policemen After Fleeing to Vermilion River

Canadian Press

DAUPHIN, Man., July 29.—Two armed constables, waist-deep in water, captured a trio of jail-breakers last night less than 12 hours after they had smashed their way out of Dauphin jail. The three escaped convicts, who shattered the lock on their jail cell and walked out the front door of the prison, were apprehended by the policemen when they fled from a posse to the Vermilion river.

Citizens and police joined in the chase when Joseph Kraft, 22, and Harvey Jones, 25, both of Winnipeg, and John B. Riordan, 27, of Vancouver, escaped from the jail at midday. Before dusk the convict trio had been surrounded and was being forced toward the river where the constables lay in hiding. Surprised at encountering the half-submerged policemen, the jail breakers surrendered. They had been serving sentences of one to three years.

The prompt capture of the escaped trio came on the heels of the apprehension of Andrew Boda, Pine River farmer, charged with the murder of his wife, Mary. Boda, alleged to have beaten his wife to death, was caught yesterday at Ukraina after police sought him for 24 hours.

WASTEFUL CONTRIBUTIONS

That the campaign contributions by Mr. Sweezey were "shamelessly, wastefully, and needlessly made for the expressed purpose of obtaining favorable consideration of the company's proposals to the government."

That the work of Beauharnois is proceeding on plans which have not been approved by the governor-in-council;

That Mr. Sweezey, together with Mr. Griffith, "was the instrument by which approximately $300,000 of the company's money was misused, as he alleges, for campaign funds."

That no evidence was adduced that $125,000 in bonds given to John Aird, Jr., of Toronto, went to any political party.

The report criticizes the conduct of Senator Donat Raymond for not disclosing his receipt of $200,000 of campaign funds for the Liberal party from Mr. Sweezey.

The report was unanimous.

The committee comprised nine members of the House of Commons—five Conservatives, three Liberals, and one United Farmer of Alberta.

Twenty-two public hearings were held, and 35 witnesses gave evidence.

The Soulanges section "presents an opportunity for hydro-electric development almost if not quite unique on the face of the globe," the report says.

In answering the question Gladstone stated that the missing man was not done away with in a flaming straw stack but had fled the country.

The events leading up to the flight were cited. Gladstone claimed that the farmer had become entangled in ex-marital relations with a young girl, the daughter of a neighbor, and fled to escape the consequences.

"At the present moment the man is working with the Sherritt Gordon Mines in Northern Ontario," said Professor Gladstone. "If you wire the chief constable there tonight, and he does not verify my statement, I will pay the questioner $100."

It is not known whether the wire was sent.

Gladstone, who is also said to be responsible for the finding of the bodies of drowned persons at Drumheller and other places in the province has a considerable following in some quarters. Following his Saskatchewan success, when he located the body of a man who had been missing for some time, and so terrified the murderer that he confessed, "Professor" Gladstone acquired a publicity agent and took to the stage.

He appeared once in an Edmonton theatre but his work on that occasion was innocuous, and police authorities and others gave no credence to his claims.

In the present case it is stated that Booher confessed to more than one person that he was responsible for the murders for which he was executed.

Making Sound Movie Of Lumber Industry

Canadian Press Cable

LONDON, July 29—A sound picture film dealing with the production of Canadian lumber is now being made for propaganda purposes by the Empire Marketing board, Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, secretary for Dominion affairs, told the house of commons Tuesday. Two other films are also under way, one dealing with the production of milk in Britain and the other having to do with general development of empire trade, he said.

JOINT PARLEY ON FISHERIES QUITE LIKELY

Gov't. to Assume Three-Quarters Cost of Old Age Pensions

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Ont., July 29.—Sweeping on toward prorogation, the House of Commons yesterday cleared from the order paper a long list of semi-contentious measures. With the presentation of the Beauharnois report, it was expected the session would end late this week. Excepting departmental estimates, there remained before the house only two matters which might lead to protracted debates—the Beauharnois report and the government's plan of coping with unemployment and farm drought.

The Dominion assurred three-quarters of the cost of the old age pension scheme when a government bill to this effect received third reading practically without discussion. The provinces will contribute the remaining 25 per cent.

TO MAKE REPORTS

Licenses to commercial fishermen in Hudson Bay were issued this year on the understanding full reports will be made to the department of fisheries regarding the season's operations, said Hon. E. N. Rhodes, the minister. E. M. Stitt, Conservative, Nelson, and Joseph Bradette, Liberal, Temiskaming, questioned the thoroughness of the survey conducted in 1930. A recommendation was made by the Northern Ontario Liberal that a trawler be sent north this fall and that it spend a whole season in the bay. If evidence justifying the expense were forthcoming, said Mr. Rhodes, he would give the plan his serious consideration.

Foreshadowing a conference with United States officials, Mr. Rhodes said several questions affecting fishermen were under dispute between the two countries. When pressed by Olaf Hanson, Liberal, Skenna, and A. W. Neill, Independent, Comox-Alberni, to prohibit the use of port facilities at Prince Rupert, B.C., to United States halibut fishermen, Mr. Rhodes said he did not believe Canada should take any drastic action. He would prefer ironing out the difficulties around a conference table.

Mr. Neill advocated either refusing United States fishermen the right to ship their catch from Prince Rupert in bond or charging two-cent-per-pound port dues. United States fishermen, he said, shipped their catch from Prince Rupert to Seattle under bond, escaping the two-cents-per-pound duty.

"It does seem to be an injustice," commented Mr. Rhodes. He would prefer conferring with United States before taking any drastic action.

an abnormal situation. The money would be paid out of the consolidated fund.

"The adoption of this resolution," Premier Bennett proceeded, "is for the introduction of a bill for the purpose of vesting in the governor-in-council during the recess of parliament until the end of the fiscal year, full power to redress so far as it is possible the conditions of unemployment and distress now prevalent in certain sections of the Dominion. Comprehensive measures of relief can not under the circumstances be undertaken without the expenditure of large sums of money. The expenditure of moneys not directly derived from current revenues should not be made without the clearist justification, and the justification which we plead and which we claim is sufficient in the interest of Canada as a whole.

The economic situation is apparent to parliament and to the public. It is not the intention of the government to minimize the gravity of it, nor is it its desire politically to profit by it.

Proceeding with his remarks, the Prime Minister declared the government "has had under the most careful consideration the means most likely to achieve that purpose, and has come to the conclusion that the best way to strike at the root of the present trouble is to accelerate the natural progress of development by immediately commencing upon the construction of some such public works as will inure to the benefit of Canada. This program of national upbuilding is known to parliament and the country. The Conservative party was pledged to it in the campaign of last year."

Weather reports from Newfoundland indicated the planes would encounter clear weather, a medium wind and a full moon.

Both planes were undistinguishable because of the speed and great height at which they were flying. It appeared both were following identical courses, but one was 40 miles behind the other.

Although the Cape Cod took off first, it has only a 300-horsepower motor as compared to the 500-horsepower motor in the Herndon and Pangborn plane.

and flew upside down. Everything was achieved with a mechanical precision that was a joy to behold.

All planes of the tour were in the city by Tuesday night save three, the tiny Aeronca, piloted by William Ressigneur, which is the "Baby" of the pageant, the Fairchild 21, with Captain Bernard Martin, the stunt artist, whose feats have created a sensation at all the airfields visited, and George M. Ross, the tour manager, who is flying a Gipsy Moth.

AERONCA AT COAST

Late in the evening a wire was received at the arifield to the effect that the Aeronca will not come to Edmonton, it having been ordered to remain at the coast owing to the bad forest fires now raging east of Cranbrook.

Another wire brought the information that Captain Martin reached Calgary from the coast at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening and George M. Ross at nine o'clock.

They will stay in Calgary for the night and leave for Edmonton in the morning. Both machines are equipped with sirens and they will be opened full blast to rouse the towns and villages along the line of flight.

The first arrivals on Tuesday were seen in the distance just after the Siskin flight had taken the air. Three planes were sighted and the crowd was quick to perceive that one was the giant British amphibian, the Saro Cloud. The first to come to ground was Jack Sanderson, chief pilot of the Fleet entries, and he was followed by the Saro Cloud.

The amphibian was at once the centre of interest, everyone admiring its palatial appearance. This machine is owned by W. R. G. Holt, of Montreal.

TOUR LEADER ARRIVES

Then came in quick succession T. M. "Pat" Reid, tour leader in a Puss Moth, one of the latest developments of the famous Moth planes. H. Madden, of Trail, B. C., with another Fleet plane. The first arrivals touched ground at 4:30 and before 5:30 there were fourteen planes there including Siskins, out of the seventeen included in the pageant, lined up on the airport.

Mayor J. M. Douglas was seen emerging from the Saro Cloud, and his friends hastened to congratulate him on his successful role as flight leader into the city. "I had a magnificent journey," said the Mayor.

He was most enthusiastic about the ride down in the morning with Captain Burbidge in an open Moth plane of the Edmonton Aero Club, and said that he felt nothing but a sense of great pleasure and had every opportunity to admire the magnificent scenery on the trip. If anything, the mayor said that he enjoyed the trip in the Moth rather better than the journey home in the luxurious cabin of the Saro Cloud. He was entertained at Calgary on his arrival by officials of the pageant.

Then an interlude was furnished by the crowd spying the Autogiro in the distance with its widespread vanes gyrating above the machine. It came on quickly—nothing slow about this craft—and there is no exaggeration in the statement that the Autogiro, the first of its kind to enter Canada, furnishes a great thrill to the public. Every eye was trained on the machine, it looking for all the world like some great insect, or a creation of H. G. Wells in one of his most imaginative moments.

AUTOGIRO DROPS DOWN

The Autogiro circled the field, came round, hovered and then commenced to descend. Dropping slowly and lightly like a bird. It came down a few feet from the concrete apron in front of the hangar and stopped within a few feet after touching the ground.

Captain Godfrey Dean, who pilots the machine, was welcomed by D. Reid, local representative of the W. C. Macdonald Tobacco Company, of Montreal, who are sponsoring the machine on the air tour.

The autogiro is the property of W. Stewart, a member of the W. Macdonald Tobacco Co., and besides acting as a feature of the pageant its task is to herald the virtues of British Consols cigarettes, the machine being given the name "British Consols."

In the course of a conversation with the Bulletin, Captain Dean said that the autogiro is creating a sensation everywhere.

His trip from the coast was marred by a forced landing, due to a broken feed pipe, but the difficulty was surmounted without any greater mishap. He came down from Lethbridge to Calgary and Edmonton. The autogiro is a Pitcairn, made in the United States, the Canadian agents being the Fairchild Aircraft Co., of Montreal. At the present time there are three models of autogiro planes in the States, the Pitcairn, the Kellett and the Buhl.

90 MILES AN HOUR

The machine has a cruising speed of 90 miles an hour, with a maximum of 110 miles an hour.

All the machines on arrival were placed under a guard of Frontiersmen, a squad of whom had been detailed for this task.

Marshall M. Foss, the air show business manager, and John Michaels, the local manager, were busy throughout the afternoon and have all arrangements in fine working order for today's pageant.

At least five thousand people gathered at the air field during Tuesday evening and there was a constant procession of admiring spectators passing around the machines and commenting on the various aircraft.

At dark, in the absence of Captain Martin, who was to have carried out the stunt, H. Madden, of Trail, B.C., took the air in a Fleet plane and thrilled the spectators with a glorious exhibition of aerial fireworks.

It was a wonderful finish to the entry of the Air Pageant into the city and everybody went home fully convinced that the Wednesday evening program will be the greatest thing in aviation yet seen in Western Canada.

Alleged Burglars Captured By Posse

Canadian Press

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 29—Surrounded by a posse of provincial police officers in thick bush near Port Coquitlam, two young men who said they were Joseph Smith of Toronto and "Chuck" Elder of Windsor, Ont., were captured Tuesday and lodged in the provincial jail at Port Coquitlam.

The youths were arrested as suspects in connection with an attempted entry into a store at Port Haney. Two burglars had fled from the store when the proprietor was awakened and fled in a car. The car was waylaid by police at Pitt river bridge but sped on under fire of a police gun. The car was found abandoned and search for its occupants resulted in the arrest of the suspects after police fired two shots ni the air. The fugitives were not armed.

JASPER PARK TO HAVE BIG RODEO AUG. 5

Turf Club and Horsemen to Stage Wild West Show

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

JASPER, July 29—Visitors at Jasper Park will be regaled with a revival of the real old wild west by a rodeo and stampede staged by the Jasper Park Rodeo and Turf Club, Wednesday, August 5. The program will be run off at the club grounds on the Edith Cavell road commencing at 1.15 p.m.

Cowgirls, cowboys, will vie for honors in the wild horse riding contests, wild cow riding and milking races, bucking, bareback riding and all the events of dime novel thriller lore. The wild horse race and bucking has succeeded in drawing some of the best horsemen and horsewomen in the west and this event should outdo the Calgary stampede for thrill and color.

The half mile track squats at the base of the mountains towering above and is fringed by a circle of poplar and fir trees. This magnificent setting forms the natural amphitheatre in which the program will be put on.

A monster dress parade of riders decked out in the splendor of the old days—chaps, brilliant neckwear, colorful shirts and ten-gallon hats, will file from the Jasper Park Lodge to the grounds at 2 p.m. Prizes for the most colorful costumes will be presented at the close of the day.

The program will continue on through the afternoon until 4.45 when it will be concluded with the open bucking contest.

The grandstand built on the hillside has a seating capacity of over 400 with an uninterrupted view of the track from all sections.

GRANDE PRAIRIE FAIR COMMENCES

Horse Racing and New Features on Program

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

GRANDE PRAIRIE, July 29. — The northlands' and the Peace River country's biggest and best summer exhibition and stock show got away to an auspicious start this morning. The gates to the grounds were thrown open to the public at 8:30 a.m. and by 10 a.m. all was in full swing. Mayor William Sharpe opened the big exhibit with an encouraging address to the farmers.

Up to Tuesday night over 400 entries had been made on the various classes of exhibits, and as the main exhibitors do not enter their showings usually until the early morning of the opening day, the entry mark is expected to be boosted to over the 800 mark.

Directors of the summer exposition claim that the fair this year will be the best ever held in the 21 years that they have been running, and the public seems to be backing this statement up.

Owing to the present condition, directors curtailed the program to one day instead of the usual three day affair. But the Peace River people accepted this cut of program in fine spirit.

A classy string of racing ponies will try their paces around the half-mile track this afternoon. The fair manager promises a classy turnout of some of the finest pacers of the entire north.

The United Canadian shows are supplying the entertainment along the midway.

To Expend $18,000 For Unemployment

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

VEGREVILLE, July 29—A capital expenditure of $18,000 for unemployment relief in Vegreville was announced Tuesday by Mayor J. B. Holden. This unemployment relief measure was decided upon by the town council at a recent meeting and was made public yesterday.

The money will be spent on public works, the work to be done by Vegreville's unemployed.

The program calls for replacement of the old steel water mains by cast iron pipe lines Mayor Holden stated. The excavating will all be done by hand and the work will be confined to unemployed married taxpayers of the town, numbering 48 at the present time.

A large section of the old water main has been replaced in the last few years. The remainder involves about 5,300 feet of excavating and back-fill as well as the replacement of sixty service connections.

Work is scheduled to get under way on Sept. 1.

Hers is "the most primitive complete human skull ever discovered."

The back of the skull, you will be sorry to hear, "resembles that of an anthropoid ape."

The lady who lived, perhaps, when Australia was not yet separated from the continent, had a brain cavity about half that of a modern human being.

And, most interesting, she proves that the muscular system "by means of which man maintains an erect posture dominates the intellectual system."

However, the intellectual system also dominates the muscular. It was intellectual curiosity that made our primitive ancestors stand on their hind legs to look above the deep grass and bushes, to spy out dangers.

Later, that intellectual curiosity made us stand still straighter, and turn our skulls backwards, that we might look at the stars.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW, praising Russians and their methods, asks: "Why did not England begin this instead of Russia?"

Such remarks worry the good "capitalists" of all countries.

Let Emma Goldman, Upton Sinclair, or some other seriously professional radical, praise Russia. That doesn't matter. But you cannot "laugh off" Shaw, although his opinions mean less than those of the real radical.

Teachers Chided By H. R. Linville

Associated Press

DENVER, Colo., July 29.—Teachers were chided for their failure to assume their full social responsibilities in an address by Henry R. Linville, of New York, president of the American Federation of Teachers, in an address at the fourth biennial conference of the World Federation of Education Associations Tuesday night.

"As long as the teachers of the country are willing to sit back supinely and question nothing," said Linville, "no challenge is made of their work."

TAKING FULL RESPONSIBILITY

The "blank cheque" method of appropriating public money for the extension of relief, or the provision of relief work, carries one condition which cannot be in any way escaped or explained away. In asking for complete liberty of action as to how much they will spend and how and for what they will spend it, the federal Ministers thereby assume complete responsibility for dealing with unemployment and distress in whatever measures these may appear, and for doing this in a strictly uniform and impartial way in all parts of the Dominion.

There is no getting away from that principle, nor from the implications which follow. If, after the bill has been assented to, there is anywhere in Canada a condition of destitution, it will be the unquestionable duty of the Government to see that this condition is relieved when it is brought to attention in the usual way. The Ministers have asked for all the power that could be given them, and this is being given. There is no limit to the money they may spend in relief work, and no restrictions as to how they may use the money.

If anywhere in Canada people go hungry this winter, or if the cities are allowed to swarm with idle men for whom work might be supplied, there will be no such thing as a disclaimer from Ottawa to the effect that "the appropriation is exhausted," or that "there is no vote" that could be stretched to cover the particular case in point.

GENIUS IN DISTRESS

Even a genius must eat. But unfortunately, in Canada as elsewhere, popular recognition is sometimes late in coming, and a great writer, or painter, or musician or sculptor, must spend his old age in want. It comes with something of a shock to learn that Bliss Carman died in poverty; and that Charles G. D. Roberts is moneyless, after spending half a century turning out literature of which Canadians are proud, but which they apparently do not buy and read.

There is something of national reproach involved in this neglect of the exceptionally talented sons and daughters of the Dominion, and it should be welcome news to the public that a movement is now afoot to make tardy amends. The Canadian Authors' Foundation is the name of an organization of which His Excellency the Governor-General is patron.

The object is to raise a fund by voluntary subscription, from which assistance will be given to distinguished Canadian authors who find themselves in the evening of life without the means for a decent living. Later on the plan is to extend the scope, and to give similar assistance to outstanding musicians and artists in like circumstances.

At present this organization is being completed by the creation of local committees in the leading centres, one such committee now being in process of formation in Edmonton. Through these local committees the appeal for contributions will be nation-wide and permanent, and there is assurance that deserving cases in all parts of the Dominion will receive uniform recognition.

This movement is one to command the sympathy of everyone who is interested in the development of Canadian literature and art, and when the appeal comes it should meet with a response both general and generous.

THE WHEAT BONUS

The wheat bonus bill as finally passed by the House of Commons is better in two particulars than the bonus plan as this has been understood and as it was apparently drafted in the first place. The bill provides that five cents shall be paid "for every bushel of wheat grown in the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba in the year 1931, and delivered to any licensed elevator in the western inspection division, commission merchant, track buyer or grain dealer as defined by the Canada Grain Act."

That is to say, the bonus is to be paid direct to the grower, and paid on all the grain of this year's crop that he sells in the regular way. The original announcement was that the bonus would be paid on wheat exported from the country only. From this the inference was drawn that it would be paid to the ocean shipping companies, the reduction in freight being supposed to work back along the line and result in a corresponding increase in price to the grower.

It will make no difference to the grower, under the bill, whether his wheat is exported or ground and eaten in Canada. And there will be no opportunity for any intervening interest to "absorb" the bonus that is intended for him. The money is to be paid to him by the buyer, and paid on all the wheat he delivers. Nor is the bonus money subject to garnishee. If the subsidy is not large, there is at least the advantage that it will be paid direct, paid at once, and paid on all the wheat delivered.

It is unfortunate that the bill was not broadened to include the whole wheat-growing area of the west. The Peace River section of British Columbia lies outside the territory in which it is operative, and the growers in that rapidly developing wheat-growing district will not receive the bonus. As these pioneer growers are farther from railway facilities and markets than growers in any other section of the west, denying them the bonus is a poor way to recognize the enterprise they are displaying and the service they are rendering in pushing back the wheat frontier.

A regulation of the department of interior dated May 12, says that sheep shall not be allowed to graze on Dominion lands in Manitoba of the Northwest without permission in writing from the minister of the interor. Also that no person shall be allowed to graze stock upon the public domain without the consent of the minister of the interior being first obtained. We seem to be getting back to the days of Senator McPherson in the matter of insane land regulations, which so successfully stopped the tide of immigration that in 1882 threatened to settle and develop the Northwest.

Residents of Second street appeared before council Monday evening to urge that that street be cleared of trees, stumps and brush for a block north of Jasper.

There was standing room only at the meeting of the town council on Monday evening, when ratepayers turned out to protest against the manner of enforcement of the pound bylaw. W. H. Cooper said his cow had been stolen out of Rowland's pasture by a man representing the pound keeper. Councillor Brown's cows had been driven away from their pasture in the same manner, but he recovered them before they reached the pound. J. R. Brenton addressed the council at length on the iniquities of the bylaw in principle and in enforcement.

The town tax rate will be 4½ mills, exclusive of school rates.

Keeping Down
By EDGAR A. GUEST

We kept up with the Joneses though the pace was rather swift,
And little joy it brought us of renown.
Now the leaner days have taught us it is wise to practice thrift,
So with the Smiths this year we're keeping down.

When the Joneses bought an auto we stepped out and bought one, too.
When the Joneses went to Europe so did we.
But now our eyes are on the Smiths and everything they do,
So this year we're as careful as can be.

The Joneses kept us busy. It was weary work to roam
And expensive high-falutin' folks to be.
But now we have discovered if the Smiths can sit at home
And be happy and contented, so can we.

It is really quite the fashion, as you travel round about;
No one ever seems to notice hat or gown.
It was keeping up with the Joneses that completely wore us out.
With the Smiths it's so much easier
keeping down.

Victoria Times: We get an idea of the automobile accident toll in the United States from the fact that in the eighteen months that country was taking part in the Great War, 50,510 members of the American Expeditionary Force were killed or died of wounds, while in eighteen months of 1929-1930 no fewer than 50,900 persons were killed in automobile accidents.

Politics
By GLENN FRANK

Until the fateful days of October, 1929, there was solid ground for comparing the economic career and the political career with the favor going to the economic career.

The reason for this was clear.

The tone and temper of life had been determined far more by what the business men did than by what the politicians did.

By and large, politics was not dipping into business to any marked extent, despite the protests of certain types of business men.

And it will always be true, as I have said so many times in this column, that the three basic processes of production, distribution, and consumption touch life at more points and oftener than all other social processes put together.

Men and women spend the major part of their lives at the work from which they get their bread and butter.

How the work is done, how its money is made, how its wealth and its goods are distributed, are, therefore, matters of transcendant importance.

And all this has gone on quite apart from politics, despite the growth of public regulation of private enterprise.

This has meant that the most exciting and rewarding and significant career for a young man of force lay, not in politics, but in business.

But we have come to a turn in the road.

The present depression is proving to more people every day that a technical civilization like ours will sooner or later fall apart unless there is brought into the whole of its economic order the kind of careful and comprehensive planning that has been put into our separate industries in the past.

I think we can achieve all this with a minimum of governmental intervention and participation, but there will be a period in the next 25 years when the impulse of government to take a hand will be powerful, and we shall need to draft into politics the best brains we have.

Historic services will be rendered in the political field during the next 25 years as historic services have been rendered in the industrial field during the last 25 years, and these services will be of two kinds.

(1) The service of administering ably the amount of governmental participation that will be essential to bringing the necessary planning into our economic order.

(2) The service of preventing government from setting out upon a futile theoretical intervention of the economic field.

Friendships
By J. J. MUNDY

When you reach the period in life when you live and conduct your affairs in a way to afford yourself and your family the greatest comfort you have attained the ideal condition.

When your mode of living and practically everything you do is carried out with the hope of pleasing and impressing those outside your family circle, you have failed to touch the keynote of happiness.

Much of the distress and a large portion of the dissention in homes, is the result of an effort to stand well with those outside the home.

Most of us allow the thought of what other people think to regulate us.

The struggles to impress others favorably bring disaster to our finances and anxiety to our lives.

Whether or not we win the approbation of others is of so little importance that it is surprising so many people put it first.

In many homes there is little of comfort and peace of mind where there should be sunshine and contented hearts were it not for the effort to win favor from so-called friends and acquaintances.

The friend who is procured at the expense of family neglect and discomfort is not worth having, for true friends don't make demands that are hard for us to meet.

Keeping Mentally Fit
By JOSEPH JASTROW, A.B., A.M., Ph.D., LL.D.

HOW SERIOUS ARE SMALL FAILINGS?

Of late our son, aged twelve, normal in every respect, fairly good grades at school, fond of play and books, has gotten into the habit of biting his finger nails and pulling hair out of the top of his head, eyebrows and eyelashes. Does that indicate nervousness or any other abnormalities?—B. L. A.

The wholesome spread of knowledge concerning nervous symptoms in children should not make parents unduly apprehensive. "Normal" is a flexible term. Nature permits large limits of variation. Of any hundred persons at any age and living under comparatively favorable conditions, not many will live to a hale and hearty old age. If you regard these alone as normal in longevity, it puts the rest in a disqualified class. If you have in mind the hardiest and sturdiest kind of a nerovous system that will mature without any complications and take with composure and good recovery the strains and stresses of living, there is as great a percentage that by that standard makes for greater risks nervously as the other for life insurance.

Parents must accept minor signs of nervousness as common in children, while yet alert to detect them early and check their growth. There are different liabilities at different ages. We almost expect children to have measles and whooping cough, though it would be far better if they didn't; and parents feel a little safer when that stage is over. A child relatively immune to these ailments is in that respect sturdier.

Apply the same concern to the signs of nervous instability and the attitude will be about right. Biting the finger nails and other signs of tension are nervous; combined with other equally undesirable habits, they need attention. It's well to go into the matter when the habit appears at this age when nature is preparing for radical changes in maturity. That is a period of additional hazard for the nervously disposed.

The child's history may give other indications. Was there difficulty in sleep or in eating at ages two or three to six or seven? Twitching of the face, grinding of the teeth, and other habit-spasms may indicate the liability; they seem more prevalent in boys, while the far more serious motor disturbance called chorea, for which the typical age is thirteen to sixteen, is far more common in girls. These symptoms are outgrown, but suggest special precaution; and the liability thereto is there from the outset.

General strengthenng of control is the aim. Out-of-doors and liberal use of large muscles are helpful to dispose of the nervous tensions that show themselves in restlessness, and in compensating relief such as biting, scratching, fidgeting, pulling. One cannot neglect the habit itself, but the indirect attack is the more favorable approach. Too close attention, involving long periods of inhibition, increases tension. So the hygience of it is indicated. The happy, well adjusted child is less tense; wholesome play and social relations are equally important. What all children need, nervous children need still more; and the young adolescent particularly. Reducing the hazards is the policy.

On This Date

JULY 29th

George Bradshaw born July 29, 1801. George Bradshaw originated the English time table we know by his name. Many people who have attempted to "look up" a train in this voluminous work possibly hold this as nothing to his favor. To the person who only requires a time table once a year when he goes to the seaside or somewhere, the Bradshaw is a work beyond comprehension. To him it is a book of mystery by the help of which a man might well set forth upon a journey and never return. But there are people who revel in it and manage to catch all sorts of trains that would appear to the ordinary mortal to be non-existent outside its columns. But it is a wonderful work; and a good deal more wonderful today than when Bradshaw first conceived it. When he produced it in 1839 it was as a small volume bound in cloth, price 6d. It was then Bradshaw's Railway Time Tables. In 1840 the name was changed to Bradshaw's Railway Companion, which apparently appeared only occasionally, and was supplemented by a monthly time sheet. It was not until 1841 that it appeared as Bradshaw's Monthly Railway Guide in the now well-known yellow wrapper. This could only be done after the railway companies had been induced to adjust their time tables for the beginning of each month. Previously, apparently, they had altered times whenever they felt inclined. No. 2 of the publication was a modest volume compared with that of today, for it only ran to 32 pages as compared with nearly 1,200 of the present work. The complexity of the work originated simpler publications such as the A.B.C., but the Bradshaw is the real railway guide. It is only human nature, however, that, despite the production of such a stupendous work, many people prefer to ask a porter!

The Mail Bag

ANCESTRAL VOICES

Kemalist Turkey, so avid of modern improvements, may yet be impelled by a recent incident to imitate our own example and establish a House Committee on the Disposition of Useless Executive Papers. An Associated Press dispatch from Istanbul reports that the Angora government is negotiating with a Bulgarian concern for the repurchase of 200 bales of old paper sold as waste but now discovered to contain priceless documents relating to Turkey's early history. The contents of a bale that had burst open by accident were found to consist of domuments dealing with the Ottoman conquest of Central Europe.—New York Times.

NOT TAKING CHANCES

Speaking in Montreal, the Governor of Illinois declared that lawlessness in the United States will lead to disaster unless checked. "It threatens justice, and has disrupted our own forces opposed to it," and he added: "Machine-Gun Pete and Hophead Joe are the idols of the masses who read the front pages of tabloids." Evidently the Governor knows his countrymen, what is the matter with them, and how they got that way.—Toronto Globe.

PRETENDED INNOCENCE

One of the most amusing features of the Beauharnois expose is the hypocrisy of newspapers and members of parliament who affect to be shocked by it. Some of the newspapers that do the most pious prating about the iniquity of it all are the very papers that refuse to publish the announcement of a political meeting unless it is paid for. Where do they think the money comes from?

Did any of these righteous organs exclaim to high heaven about the boasting confession of Premier Tolmie that Gen. McRae "had plenty of gasoline" for the Dominion campaign? Where did this "gasoline" come from, if not from such sources?

And the members of parliament who were writing and wiring to party headquarters a year ago demanding money for their local campaigns—where did they think the money came from?—Vancouver Sun.

TREATMENT FOR SUNSTROKE AND HEAT EXHAUSTION

When sunstroke occurs the face is usually red, the fever high, and the patient possibly unconscious. The first thing to do is to reduce the fever within reasonable bounds as quickly as possible. One of the best methods for treating such cases is to place the patient on a cot and throw cold water on him from several feet away. Then use ice packs to the head and neck every three minutes. Ice cold enemas are sometimes used, but I have found that the tepid or slightly cool enema is more effective, as it cleanses the bowel better.

The skin of the patient may be cooled by turning a hose on the patient or by sponging with ice water. The temperature is sometimes alarmingly high and may reach 107 degrees to 110 degrees. Keep up the sponging with ice water until the temperature has been reduced to 103 degrees. Then place the patient in bed, giving cool water to drink and allow no food but acid fruit juices until the patient recovers.

Heat exhaustion being different from sunstroke requires a different treatment. This is the most common trouble during a heat wave. The patient may be unable to sleep or work properly for several days. The first symptoms are dizziness, nausea, paleness of the face, quick breathing, weak pulse, and finally loss of consciousness. The important symptoms are pale face and clammy skin which is easily distinguished from sunstroke, where the face is red and the fever high.

The treatment for heat exhaustion is to bring the temperature back to normal which will help the heart action. The hot bath with cold applications to the head may be used. Hot packs may be applied to the spine and the limbs massaged, if you cannot give the hot bath. Stimulants may be needed.

Follow the immediate treatments with at least two days' rest in bed, and a fruit diet. All heating foods should be avoided. Hot enemas and deep breathing exercises are also helpful adjuncts to the treatment.

You will see that the treatment is exactly opposite for heat exhaustion and sunstroke. When you realize that in heat exhaustion the skin is pale and cold, while in sunstroke it is red and hot, you can readily see the difference and know which treatment to use.

Both sunstroke and heat exhaustion are associated with nervous shock and the patient should be required to remain in bed for several days after an attack. The patient should remain on fruit juices for at least four or five days, with frequent shower baths, deep breathing exercises and friction rubs. Every effort should be made to build up the patient's health and he should be very careful about exposing his body to undue heat or direct rays of the sun for some time.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Bedbugs

Question: Mrs. G. writes: "We recently bought a lovely cottage and upon moving in were horrified to find the place alive with bedbugs. We have worked like Trojans to get rid of the pests, but after each siege upon them, some member of the family makes a 'find.' As a result, we are all developing bug complexes or something. Help us!"

Answer: It is usually possible to fumigate a house sufficiently to destroy bedbugs, but the fumigation may have to be repeated several times, as the bedbug is a good "faster" and can live as long as a year without food. The best fumigating gas to use is hydrocyanic acid, but this is very dangerous to human beings and should be used only by an expert fumigator who can be found in any large city. Sulphur fumes may also be employed to advantage, but there is a risk of injury to household fabrics from bleaching, and of tarnishing metallic surfaces. Most drugstores have a liquid preparation which can be sprayed into the cracks or concealment places, and will usually do the work if it is used several times over a period of a few months. The bedbug often stays concealed for months at a time and unless the spray is repeated at intervals they are liable to come from their hiding places after the effect of the poison has worn off.

Flaxseed

Question: Mrs. J. M. asks: "Will you please explain what effect flaxseed has on the system when eaten dry and chewed thoroughly, as one would eat raw wheat?"

Answer: Flaxseed is a nourishing food because of its large oil content, and it has a good effect on the bowels. It is better to use it cooked, perhaps added to some cereal, for in this way it digests more easily than in the raw state. Flaxseed tea may also be used with benefit.

Opinions

CANADIAN CONGRESS OF LABOR

Editor Bulletin.

Regarding Mr. C. Berg's attitude toward the All Canadian Congress of Labor, and its affiliated independent unions. I have just arrived from Toronto, and was surprised to read such anti-National propaganda in your paper, in favor of a foreign organization. I have learned that Mr. Berg is not a naturalized citizen of Canada, and yet he comes here and works his way to the presidency of the Trades and Labor Council, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

I cannot understand just why officials of our cities, provinces and Dominion cater so to the membership of these foreign organizations. There are a number of people right in our city, who have not got their naturalization papers, and are keeping Canadians out of positions. Is it not foolish on the face of it, and some of our stalwart Conservatives who must have stood by Mr. Bennett and his slogan, are thoughtlessly retarding what their leader wants to do, make "Canada for the Canadians."

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE PRINCESS

One of the greatest classics and biggest box office successes of American stage history, Eugene Walter's "The Easiest Way," has been made into a talking picture which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will present for two days, beginning today, at the Princess theatre.

The original stage star of "The Easiest Way" was the talented Francis Starr, who toured in it for years. The screen version will present that popular young blonde stellar light, Constance Bennett, in the central role of Laura Murdock.

Constance Bennett hardly needs an introduction to the thousands who have come to love her for her work in "Three Faces East", "Sin Takes a Holiday" and "Common Clay." This charming daughter of the stage star, Richard Bennett, has become one of the really great drawing cards of the cinema.

AT THE RIALTO

In her latest dialogue triumph, "Sin Takes a Holiday," Constance Bennett, the distinguished Pathe star, demonstrates again in her inimitable fashion that women have this in common with the North West Mounted Police—they always get their man. The picture comes to the Rialto theatre for three days opening on Thursday next.

In the role of secretary to a philandering millionaire, Miss Bennett is said to voice the epigrammatic dialogue with characteristic charm and to carry the role with a sophistry that is peculiarly her own. She has the clever support of Kenneth MacKenna, Basil Rathbone and Rita La Roy.

The added feature on the same program is "Sweethearts On Parade," starring Lloyd Hughes, Alice White and Marie Prevost.

Showing for the last times today is the famous British play "Suspense" and "Night Work," with Eddie Quillan and Sally Starr.

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Night Angel," now playing at the Capitol theatre, starring Nancy Carroll and Fredric March, required more than a dozen different European national types for atmosphere in its various scenes. The locale of "The Night Angel" is Prague, the gay capital of Bohemia, which is known as the melting pot of Europe, because it is situated in the centre of the continent and people from nearly every country are passing through its crooked streets. Therefore, when Edmund Goulding, author-director of the play, was casting for the production his justifiability chose types from all nationalities. When you see "The Night Angel" your heart will tug; your pulse will race. When you live the lavish love episodes you live a romance in the modern mood. You must see two great stars together, Nancy Carroll and Frederic March, in "The Night Angel" at the Capitol today, tomorrow and Friday.

Also on the same program is "Arabian Knights"; "Climate Chasers" and "Laugh It Off," a mixture of comedies and novelties, providing an excellent two hours' program to suit the taste of the most particular people.

AT THE EMPRESS

Perhaps a good laugh is all you need. If so, you will get it in overflowing measure at the Empress theatre, starting Thursday, where Winnie Lightner will hold the spotlight in "Gold Dust Gertie, her latest adventure in nonsense.

Olsen and Johnson, craziest clowns of the talkies, are featured in a very merry cast.

The picture is a riot of laughs from start to finish.

Showing at the Empress for the last times today is William Haines in "Just a Gigolo," an adaptation of the David Belasco stage farce, "Dancing Partner." Irene Purcell and Charlotte Granville of the original play support the star in the screen version.

HOLY LAND MODEL

Ganci Bros. model of the Holy Land, one of the most remarkable exhibitions of its sort ever presented to the public, is nearing the end of its showing at the Y.M.C A. Hall, after an enthusiastic reception by Edmonton's people, interested in Bible history, and the fine piece of construction made in their midst.

Seventy signs mark the most interesting scenes in the exhibition and a folder given each visitor explains these scenes. Better than before this greatly improved model gives a wonderful insight into Biblical history to the observer.

Geographically perfect, and following the old style of architecture in its buildings to the greatest degree of accuracy, the model gives to visitors a better idea of the Holy Land than years of study of the Bible.

LIGHT WAVES PRODUCE NEW FORM OF LIFE

Interesting Experiments Being Carried Out by Biologists

Scientists are continuously at work trying to learn more of the mechanics of life. The X-ray has many uses, but none, perhaps, exceeds in interest its employment by biologists as the tool by which inherited tendencies of plants and animals may be changed. Dr. Reginald G. Harris tells the story in the following article:

By DR. REGINALD G. HARRIS
Director, the Biological Laboratory,
Cold Spring Harbor

Copyright 1931, by the Associated Press

COLD SPRING HARBOR, N.Y., July 29.—Producing more or less strange new types in animals and plants, oftener than they would ordinarily arise, is one of the most interesting present developments in biology. This is done by certain light waves.

Biologists have found that almost any animal or plant brought into the laboratory, or cultivated extensively, will produce new forms from time to time. These are found to breed true. The changes which they show are inherited and are called mutations. Many which would not survive nature's competitive struggle, are found and kept, through close observation and care, in the laboratory or in the plant nursery. These mutations, of course, are the basis of many of the varieties of domesticated animals, dogs for example, and of plants, such as corn. They are considered one of the chief causes of evolution.

CAUSE MUTATIONS

Many experiments to bring about mutations, by changing external conditions, have failed. But lately it has been found that the frequency with which a given animal or plant will mutate may be considerably increased by treatments with X-rays or with radium emanations. Thus in the fruit fly, which has been used extensively for experiments in heridity, X-rays have increased the rate of mutation 500 times.

Biologists have found one of the tools by which inherited tendencies may be changed.

Prof. H. J. Muller of the University of Texas is one of the biologists who has outstandingly demonstrated this, although a number of biologists in different laboratories are working with this method and have already added many data concerning various animals and plants.

The outside part (cortex) of the suparenal glands is giving up its secret as a result of scientific research by biologists. Extracts of this gland have been produced in the laboratory, which give the sufferer from Addison's disease a new lease on life. Until recently a person afflicted with Addison's disease had little to look forward to but the worst. Tests made at the Mayo Clinic with an extract from beef suprarenal glands give the patient considerably more hope.

But what the outside of the suprarenal gland does to keep most of us from Addison's disease was still not known. Very recent experiments seem to be pointing the way to the answer, and that seems to be concerned with internal breathing.

All cells of the body breathe with the aid of the blood. They take oxygen from the blood and give back carbon dioxide. When the cortex of the suprarenal gland is not working right, it now appears from experiments, the blood will not receive carbon dioxide from the cells as it should.

CAUSES ACIDOSIS

If the exhaust of a motor is closed off, the motor will not run. If the carbon dioxide exhaust of the body is interfered with, the body runs badly or not at all. The excess carbon dioxide left in the cells causes acidosis and in turn other complications.

There are many biologists and many laboratories who deserve credit in researches upon the suprarenal cortex. The extract used at the Mayo Clinic is the discovery of Doctors W. W. Single and J. J. Pfiffner; and the University of Iowa, the biological laboratory at Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., and Princeton University have all served as places in which these men have carried on their researches.

There are other biologists in other laboratories who have worked with more or less success upon this and similar problems. Indeed one discovery is made in biology which is not based upon the foundation of biological research the world over, and into which the work of many minds and many institutions has not gone.

Other recent developments in biology are discoveries of potent extracts of the female sex glands, and of the male sex glands; great advance in the knowledge of the functions of the pituitary gland in controlling growth and the appearance of sexual maturity; and additional information concerning the structure and reactions of protoplasm, the physical basis of life.

The fact is that in every biological laboratory in the world, scientists are at work continuously trying to learn more of the mechanics of life, in its many diversified and in its normal and abnormal expressions. Disease retreats before the attacks of these men. Ignorance is decreased. Philosophy and religion are changed. Life should be more liveable.

HEAT AND AIR STATED TO BE START OF SEX

Chromosome and Other Unidentified Substances Are Guide to Growth

Bulletin News Special

COLD SPRINGS HARBOR, N.Y., July 28.—Sex seems to originate either in a control of oxygen, of the heat production of metabolism, of a still unidentified substance or in chromosomes, according to a summary of the latest scientific studies reported to the biological laboratory here.

The summary is by Ezra Allen, Ph. D., associate professor of histology-embryology of New York Homeopathic Medical college and Flower hospital. It was presented in a series of special scientific reports and dealt with sex development in mammals, including human beings.

One definitely known fact about origin of sex, said Dr. Allen, is its relation to a particular shaped chromosome. Chromosomes are threadlike bodies in all living cells, which determine hereditary characters. They are common to all plants and animals. Man has forty-eight chromosomes in each cell.

But when a human life begins in the union of two cells, one male the other female, there are only twenty-four chromosomes in each of the uniting cells. Their sum makes the normal forty-eight. A number which remains constant though all the thousands of millions of cells later develop into an adult man or woman.

In the original male cell one chromosome sometimes is different in size from the other twenty-three. Scientists know it as the Y chromosome. Just about exactly half the male cells have the odd size Y, while the others have a twenty-fourth chromosome like the other twenty-three.

If the Y chromosome cell unites with the female cell the sex is male, if the other type unites, a female develops.

Don't Mind the Germs--Just Go And Have Kiss

Bulletin News Special

RUGBY, England, July 29.—A kiss as defined scientifically by Dr. Josiah Oldfield, British scientist, is: "The result of two sets of cellular emotion vibrations which attract each other and become harmoniously merged into a rich chord by contact." To be real, a kiss should combine the three ingredients of affection, respect and passion, the scientist opines.

Contrary to some statements, a kiss is not unsanitary, in Dr. Oldfield's opinion.

"A kiss does not create the scare-mongers' million microbes which are said to be given with a kiss," he says. "If Jack kisses Jill and transfers to her a million microbes, he gets in return a million of hers, and from what we know of evolution the probability is that this exchange of microbes is beneficial."

PLANT NAILED TO CROSS THRIVING

Geranium Ready to Bloom Ten Feet Up

Bulletin News Special

CANTON, Ill., July 29.—Believe it or not, but a slip from a geranium plant nailed to a cross placed ten feet in the air is thriving and bears several buds about to break into full bloom at the home of Vancel Kauzlarich.

The unique result follows the relating of a tale to Mrs. Kauzlarich several months ago. She was told that by placing part of the plant in place with three nails in the position of the crucified Christ life would stay in the plant until nipped by frost. Another slip from the same plant was planted in the usual method and has since died.

Mrs. Kauzlarich said she was told to confine her efforts to St. John's day, June 24, before sunup. Visitors have been attracted from great distances since hearing of the phenomenon.

Woman Sees Big Future for Peace River Territory

Miss Harper Advises Settlers to Take Less Acreage

Canadian Press

MONTREAL, July 29—The Peace River country is destined to become one of the greatest developments agriculturally and commercially which the world has ever known, was the statement made by Miss Elizabeth Harper, daughter of the late Henry Harper and Lady Emily Harper of Banbury, England, during the course of an address to the members of the welfare committee of the Montreal Women's Club recently.

Miss Harper, who is on her fourth visit to Canada, serves in an honorary capacity as councillor of the Society for the Oversea Settlement of British Women. Her visits to the outlying parts of this country are all made at her own expense.

Miss Harper believes that with a short line of railway from the valley of the Peace to the Pacific coast and the return of normal economic conditions the Peace River country will be the mecca of settlers.

There was a great need, however, for doctors and nurses, she said, and one of the human problems was that of saving the mothers.

In addition to its farming facilities and its great beauty, Miss Harper pointed out that the Peace River district had such a wealth of coal, and oil that its canyon had been called a future Pittsburg.

Future settlers would do well to take less acreage than those who settled under the 3000 family scheme, Miss Harper said. She advocated a maximum loan of $2,700 being set instead of the former loans which ranged from $3,900 to $5,000. A payment of $290 ot $400 yearly is required on the latter, she said, and while people are breaking land it is impossible for them to spare these amounts.

Collection in Gallery Includes Latest Work of Prominent Artist

Although he has been in Alberta but a short time, the name of Mr. A. C. Leighton is becoming synonymous with a new movement in art in the province. Not only is his contribution of time and ability being felt in the association of Alberta artists which he is organizing, and in the classes he is holding in Calgary and Edmonton, but he is preaching the gospel of artistic interpretation and beauty in the commonplace through exhibitions of recent work. One of the most interesting of these is the water color collection which is at present hung in the newly enlarged Edmonton Museum of Arts, Fourth Floor Civic block. There is a quiet peace and delicacy about the pictures that one feels immediately upon entering the room in which they are hung. Modern in viewpoint and interpretation, they are without the modernistic touch, and have no disturbing element. Old windmills in Kent, mountain views from the district near Banff, and finally a number of recently finished water colors done in Edmonton, are included in the collection. There are perhaps a dozen interesting spots in the city which the artist has found full of interest and charm. Such unbelievable scenes as old back yards of tumble-down houses, a crazy hill with old houses up the side, and a rainstorm with the Macdonald hotel in the distance, have become touched with a sort of magic. Undoubtedly these places themselves contain the richness of atmosphere one feels, but it requires an artist of Mr. Leighton's ability to bring it to the average person. By far the larger number of Mr. Leighton's pictures are done by early evening light, and one feels that he does not like the more brilliant splashings of western prairie suns. here is a subtle play of shadow and soft light, a magic of twilight about the larger number of things. Behind the beauty of his pictures one appreciates the careful craftsmanship of the well trained artist, and a genius for arrangement, coloring and harmony. In portrayal Mr. Leighton's skies are particularly interesting, always a focal point in his pictures. The freshness and clearness of all his work makes it particularly suitable to Alberta studies, in that he is able to express with his brush that rare, vital atmosphere which is peculiar to the prairies.

Many of the English scenes have been exhibited in the Royal British Academy, the Royal Academy, the Paris Salon and the Sussex Art Academy. Mr. Leighton left a promising career in London a few years ago to come to Canada for the Canadian Pacific Railway, and a number of his mountain paintings have been done for them. He liked the west and is remaining in Calgary. Mr. Leighton expressed the opinion that Edmonton was the most "paintable" city he had found in the west, with a quality somehow reminiscent to England.

Drastic Changes in System of Nursing Are Now Predicted

Education Centres Likely to be Result of Dominion Survey

Canadian Press

WINNIPEG, Man., July 29. — The establishment of a chair of nursing at the University of Manitoba was urged here recently by Miss Mabel F. Gray, assistant professor of nursing at the University of British Columbia, in an address at the refresher course for graduate nurses. In order to prepare capable teachers and nurses for research work, it was necessary to have more than a hospital school, Miss Gray said, and nursing should receive professional recognition through affiliation with university faculties as is the case with medicine, law, theology, engineering, journalism and commerce.

"The university is necessary to permit the nurse, the pivot of public health, to become more effective through better preparation for specialized work," Miss Gray said. Miss Gray paid tribute to the University of Manitoba, as the first in Canada to extend aid to the profession. With the passing of the Nurse Registration Act in 1913, the council of the university assumed responsibility for the maintenance of a high standard in nursing. "Courses for graduate nurses were first established at Teacher's College, Columbia University, in 1899," she said. "Since that time, combined academic and professional courses have been established in 45 universities, seven of which are in Canada. Chairs of nursing have been most commonly established in the faculty of medicine, applied science or public health.

"Drastic changes in methods of nursing were predicted, following the survey of nursing conditions in Canada, just completed. It appeared likely that centres of nursing education would be a result. The importance of Winnipeg as such a centre was evident," she said. "In the interests of public welfare, the Nurses' Association of Manitoba should work for affiliation with the present facilities of the Manitoba Medical College and the university itself."

German Specialist Blames Modern Living for Many Ills

Primitive Woman Was Healthy Creature Says Dr. Fritz Ludwig

Canadian Press

MONTREAL, July 29. — Cancer is like a jig-saw puzzle, but its pieces—cellular, colloidal nuclear and protoplasmic complexes — baffle any sane alignment, according to Dr. Fritz Ludwig, Swiss-German cancer research expert and specialist in obstetrics and gynecology.

Head of a private clinic in Berne, Switzerland, and engaged in research work on cancerous diseases of women with Dr. V. Reis, Dr. Ludwig is on a tour of Canada and the United States, investigating and gathering data for a paper on the effects of modern civilization on female health.

"It is woman—whose mind baffles philosophers and whose bodily ills challenge medical science—that suffers mostly from cancer," Dr. Ludwig stressed in an interview here recently. "And seeing that the worth of any civilization is measured by the treatment it accords the mothers of the race in time of physical stress, it is up to medical science to alleviate the awful suffering that women the world over endure as a result of cancer.

Modern civilization has created havoc, he found. Crowded cities, thunderous noise, close living quarters, faulty eating and digestion, lack of fresh air and sunshine, smoking, drinking, over-tension in violent sports—these were factors which increased women's diseases.

"The primitive woman was a healthy creature," the doctor declared. "She suffered from few ills. But our modern women? Why, they are physical and nervous wrecks. So hazardous are present living conditions that childbirth, once a simple thing for the primitive woman, brings on the most serious complications for modern women."

As an authority on gynecology, Dr. Ludwig was alive to the value of the latest discoveries in regard to hormones, those substances which, secreted from the glands, pass into the blood and cause other glands to secrete. "We have made the most intricate of investigations into the reaction of the varied hormones on a woman's constitution," he said. "Without a doubt, the constant secretion of hormones has a great deal to do with the emotional and physical well-being of women. Hormones have opened up a great and vast field linked with gynecological medicine."

Modern medicine, the doctor concluded, was waging an uphill fight in many cases.

"Why does humanity tolerate living conditions which invariably shorten life and endow man with the most fatal of maladies?" he wondered. "Men live like fools, in cases, and women, too, and then expect medicine to cure them on the spot."

POSTCARD ON WAY 19 YEARS IS DELIVERED

Canadian Press

MONTREAL, July 29—What is believed to be a record for delay in mail matter reaching its destination is credited to a postcard received recently by Mrs. M. Ryan, Chemin des Cources, Strathmore, Que. Mailed in Saint John, N.B., on May 30, 1912, it reached Mrs. Ryan on June 24 of this year, more than 19 years later.

There is no small mystery attached to its perambulations in the long period between mailing and delivery, and room for endless speculation. It bears two postmarks, one date May 30, 1912, at Saint John, and one June 24, 1931, at St. Henry. The latter mark, according to postal authorities in Montreal, indicates that it was re-mailed at St. Henry on that date, which in turn gives ground for the theory that it reached Strathmore in due course shortly after May 30, 1912, but came into possession of someone other than the one for whom it was intended. As to why it should be re-mailed after so long a time, one guess is as good as another, they state. Ordinary mail is not always postmarked at the point of destination, it was pointed out, and this makes it impossible to say when the card reached Strathmore the first time.

The card was addressed to Mrs. Ryan's husband, who died four years ago, and was written by his nephew, then a boy of six, on a rainy day.

"Anyway, whoever sent it on is a good sport," said Mrs. Ryan. "If I had uncovered a mistake I had made 19 years ago, like this, I would not draw attention to it; I would have burned it."

Toronto Maintains Reputation For Building Homes

Canadian Press

TORONTO, Ont., July 29.—That Toronto still maintains her designation as "the city of homes" is shown by permits granted for 60 undertakings at a cost of $303,000. A contract has been awarded for a brick and steel addition to Wymilwood, the Women's Union Building in connection with Victoria College, to cost around $10,000. The plans call for more than doubling the cafeteria capacity. Other work planned is to increase accommodation of the girl students in houses at 113 to 147 Bloor street, owned by the college.

Funeral of Late Mrs. McKellar Is Held Today

Pioneer Canadian Passes After Long Life of Service

Mrs. Christina McKellar who passed away on Monday morning, was buried today in the Edmonton cemetery.

The hundreds of friends who gathered at the house of her son-in-law, Mr. S. E. Cornell, 115 street, for the services, and the wonderful floral remembrances, showed only a slight expression of the height and loving esteem in which she was held by those who have had the priviledge of knowing her during her residence in Edmonton.

The daughter of Malcolm and Christina Dewar, pioneer farmers of Cardoc township, Middlesex County, Ontario, she was born ninety-two years ago.

When she was six years old her parents moved to Lampton County, where she received her education and later married Mr. Peter McKellar, who deceased her many years ago. She later resided in Sarnia, coming west twenty years ago with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Cornell.

Possessed of a kindly, loving, Christian character, ever ready to help her neighbors or those who needed assistance, she showed wise judgment, and her cheerful uplifting spirit endeared her to old and young alike.

She possessed a wonderful memory and while keeping a firm grip of the years that were gone, took a very keen interest in all the present day events.

She was a member of First Baptist Church during the twenty years she spent in Edmonton.

She leaves the most loving memories with her sisters, Miss Sarah and Miss Jessie Dewar, and a brother, Mr. M. A. Dewar of Rockhaven, Saskatchewan and her son and daughter, Mr. Peter McKellar of Duluth and Mrs. S. E. Cornell, Edmonton, three grandchildren, two in Duluth and Mrs. Douglas York of Kimberley, B.C.

Rev. Dr. McLaurin, who was her pastor in Ontario forty years ago, conducted the services. The pallbearers were: Mr. H. Hardisty, Mr. Neil McIntyre, Mr. F. J. Dewar, Mr. A. E. Kaiser, Mr. John York and Mr. J. E. Lundy.

Tested Recipes For Salad Dressings

Now that salads are the order of the day, really good recipes for salad dressings will be welcomed. A salad is often made or marred by the piquancy of the dressing used, so that tested recipes are very desirable. Since some prefer an uncooked dressing and others a cooked dressing, we give two recipes, both of which we know will please:

SALAD DRESSING (Uncooked)

Two eggs beaten until light; ½ teaspoon salt; ½-teaspoon mustard; ½ can Eagle Brand Condensed Milk, ½ cup vinegar. Beat the first four ingredients vigorously for a few minutes, add the vinegar, stir well and set aside for a few hours to thicken. Excellent for fruit or vegetable salad. Will keep for weeks. For Russian dressing add Chili sauce to taste.

SALAD DRESSING (Cooked)

Half tablespoon salt; 1 teaspoon mustard; 1 tablespoon flour; 1 tablespoon butter; ½ cup Eagle Brand Condensed Milk; ½ cup water; ¼ cup vinegar; 1 egg, butter, milk, water vinegar. Cook until thickened. Strain and cool. Whipped Borden's St. Charles Evaporated Milk or Cream may be added before serving if desired. Yield 1 cupful.

The Ghost of Marseilles

The Bulletin's Daily Short Story From Real Life

By ED. BODIN.

A STRANGE expression was noticed on the face of Col. Irving Martin, U.S. Army, retired, as he, accompanied by his daughter and son-in-law, was visiting the office of the Adjutant General in Washington recently, and read the following record which brought back weird memories:

"A ghost observed in the officers' mess hall by the sentry and officer of the guard—Camp Covington, Marseilles, France—3 A.M. May 4, 1919.

"Col. Martin."

"Why, father," exclaimed the Colonel's daughter, "you never told us about that. Did you see the ghost yourself?"

"No, daughter," he confessed with an unusual tone of voice, "I—I didn't exactly see the ghost myself, but I knew the particulars."

"You will tell us about it, Colonel—won't you?" ventured the son-in-law with similar interest.

"Well—I suppose I'll have to explain, now that you have seen the old report. Remind me of it at luncheon today."

Food was of secondary importance in the minds of the Colonels daughter and her husband, who had impatiently awaited the mid-day meal anxious to hold the Colonel to his promise—and this was the story he revealed.

ORDERED TO MARSEILLES AFTER THE ARMISTICE

Shortly after the Armistice, I was ordered from St. Aignan in central France to report to Camp Covington, Marseilles and take command of the embarkation at that southern port. Naturally considerable organization work was necessary, and one by one I appointed various officers to supervise certain departments. One of those officers was a young Lieutenant named Bodkin, who reported several days after I arrived. He was a conscientious chap and always anxious to obey instructions to the very letter. I assigned him to duty as mess officer to supervise the feeding of five thousand soldiers a day. It was also his job to attend to the officers mess—and I impressed the fact upon the Lieutenant's mind that I was very particular in food matters.

"Lieutenant," I said, "I don't want to hear of one case of ptomaine poisoning in the camp. And that means rigorous inspection of every meal."

"I'll do my best," the young officer responded meekly.

"Furthermore," I continued, "there will be no eating between sundown and sunrise—except for the guard—and this applies to officers as well as enlisted men."

He understood my order immediately. he mess halls would have to be locked during the night—and it meant that the mess officer was forbidden to hand out any free "chow" to officers returning from midnight parties at Marseilles' famous resorts, such as the Hotel Splendide—Dan's American Bar of the Casino, where Gaby Deslys was the great attraction at that time.

I realized that I had given Lieutenant Bodkin quite an assignment—really a twofold duty; for supervising the feeding of the several thousand troops was a job in itself—and then to have to satisfy over three hundred temperamental officers, was making the burden exceedingly heavy; but Bodkin was a reliable man—and I was short of good assistants. Luckily the Lieutenant had good mess sergeants and cooks to call upon.

Of the five mess halls in the entire embarkation camp, the officers' mess hall was the least cheerful. It was a broken down chateau. Its cracked walls threw off a gloomy atmosphere that made one glad to be away from it after dark. The upper story was not used; and the partitions between the main beams dividing the rooms on the first floor had been torn out so as to make a suitable dining hall. The main entrance faced the centre of the camp, while the rear door leading from the kitchen, opened in front of the officers' billets. There were two large windows on both sides of the structure and a small one in front.

Shortly after arriving in Marseilles I had met a French officer, who when a child, had lived near the location of Camp Covington. One night while we were both sitting in the Cafe Riche on Rue la Cannebiere, the main street of Marseilles, this Frenchman told me about a haunted house on the hill. And he was exceedingly surprised when I informed him that this haunted house was now being used as the officers' mess hall; but his face took on a serious expression as he said: "Some night you may see something strange."

And it was not long afterward that something strang did happen. It was the night of May 3, 1919—the night before the date of that report you saw this morning. Lieut. Bodkin for that stretch of twenty-four hours (every officer took a turn, you know) had been assigned officer of the guard. About 2:30 a.m. he left the guard house on a tour of sentinel inspection. One of the sentires had been stationed near the officers' mess hall, post No. 7, if I remember correctly—and when the Lieutenant approached the particular post—the sentry's voice rang out in the moonlight.

THE SENTRY HAD JUST SEEN A GHOST

"Halt—who—who's there?"

"Officer of the guard," responded Lieut. Bodkin.

"Advance, officer of the g-g-uard—to be recognized."

As the Lieuetnant advanced slowly he met a suffering sentry whose teeth were chattering; and undoubtedly if the officer had rushed him the sentry would have dropped his gun and fled in terror.

"What's the matter with you?" Bodkin asked, realizing that something was wrong.

"I'vt just seen a ghost, Lieutenant," he murmured as he pointed toward the chateau.

"What do you mean—a ghost?" the Lieutenant sneered, although he confessed later that he felt a creepy feeling finding its way up his spine.

"A ghost stood at the window—I could see its white face in the moonlight."

"How close were you to the window?"

"About twenty-five feet, Lieutenant."

"Are you sure it wasn't a man?"

"No—it wasn't a human being—not with a face like that—that house is haunted—everybody knows it."

The sentry was certain he had seen something supernatural, and while the Lieutenant didn't like the idea of it—it was up to him to investigate.

"Did the ghost look at you?" the officer asked with uncanny feeling.

"No—he seemed to be looking over toward the Notre Dame Cathedral on the hill by the sea. His eyes were like fire—just like ghosts I have read about; and his lips were moving."

"Did you see any light in the building?"

"No—nothing but the shiny ghost."

"Why didn't you shoot him?"

"Shoot him! Good Lord, Lieutenant—I couldn't even raise my gun—I can stand bullets, but not ghosts."

But the situation was not so humorous as it sounds, for the awe of the sentry convinced the officer that he had seen something out of the ordinary; and naturally the Lieutenant wanted to see it himself. If some one was robbing the mess hall the officer of the guard would be held responsible; and, man or ghost, he was going into that building; that is, in company with the sentry, not alone.

> LIEUT. BODKIN, who insisted he actually saw the ghost.

With drawn revolver the officer tiptoed to the window.

But Bodkin wanted to look in the window first.

"You stand by the front door," he said to the sentry. "I'm going up close to the window. I'll also watch that no one leaves the rear door. You keep one eye on the other side of the building."

With drawn revolver the officer tiptoed to the window where the ghost had appeared, but did not stand directly in front of it. He crouched close to the building and peered in through the lower corner of the pane.

Blackness was all that he could see, but a nervous chill crept over him and his eyes moistened a little.

"Suppose that ghost should loom up suddenly?"

He shuddered at the thought—and he realized that he, too, would be unable to shoot. Buck-fever is mild in comparison to ghost-fever.

THERE STOOD THE FORM OF A MAN IN ROBES

Whether it was his imagination or something else, he had no sooner experienced the thought of a visitor from the realms of the departed when he looked up and there stood the form of a man in white robes reflecting the moonlight that was shown upon him through the window. The apparition seemed to gaze into the distance—out past the famous Notre Dame Cathedral toward the historic Chateau d'If from which the Count of Monte Cristo swam to safety one black night, defying the treacherous currents of the Mediterranean.

Whether or not the figure noticed the officer, no one knows, but it disappeared as suddenly as it had come, and all was black again inside.

Quickly the Lieutenant rushed to the sentry at the front door. "I've seen it," he whispered.

Then raising his voice to force the fear from his heart, he exclaimed: "Stand here by the front door, sentry—I'm going to the guardhouse to get the key—we're going inside—if you see anyone leave this building, halt him and hold him till I return."

The officer of the guard was back in less than three minutes. The sentry was waiting nervously. He had not heard a sound. Bodkin unlocked the front door. Then with a flashlight in his left hand and a revolver in his right, he kicked open the door as the sentry followed with gun drawn ready for action at the first command.

But all was quiet within. Nothing but the deathlike silence of a tomb greeted the two brave men. Not a thing had been disturbed. Provisions were untouched, and the cash-box which held a few francs, was still in the glass case with the candies and crackers.

"I guess it was a ghost all right," the Lieutenant said; and the sentry agreed with him.

EXAMINED WINDOWS AND REAR DOOR

Before leaving the building they examined all the windows and also the rear door which was securely locked. There was no indication of forced entry. There were only two keys to every door in the camp. One key hung in the guardhouse, and the duplicate remained in the strong-box in my billet.

So the report of the ghost of Marseilles spread throughout the camp quickly, and before breakfast every soldier and officer was giving some version of the affair.

I was still in bed when Lieutenant Bodkin reported the strange occurrence to me. He was convinced he had seen a ghost.

By 9 o'clock reporters from the French newspaper of Marseilles had arrived and requested an interview; and both Lieutenant Bodkin and the sentry on post number seven were given great publicity—their names being added to the list of those Frenchmen who had witnessed the phenomenon in days gone by.

So what was I to do—but make my report to headquarters; and I hoped that when Gen. Pershing read it, he didn't wonder what kind of wine we served at Marseilles."

At this point the Colonel's daughter interrupted—her eyes glistened with an uncanny interest.

"But father—didn't the Lieutenant describe the ghost more fully—what kind of a costume did the ghost wear—for that probably would have disclosed the period of its existence on earth."

The Colonel smiled. "No daughter—men who see ghosts seldom see them that clearly—their fear evidently drives away the details. Perhaps it was just as well that Lieut. Bodkin was ghost conscious."

The daughter looked at the Colonel keenly. "Why father—what a queer smile on your face—you're holding back something—what is it?"

The Colonel dropped his glance. "If you promise not to let the cat out of the bag—or rather the ghost out of the grave—I'll let you in on a secret.

"Well—if Lieut. Bodkin had looked more closely, he would have noticed the ghost was wearing pyjamas. You see daughter—I woke up desperately hungry during that night, and took the mess hall key from my strongbox, hoping to be able to enter the rear door of the mess hall and secure a box of crackers without disturbing the sentry. Evidently I was a poor burglar—but a darned fine ghost."

THE END.

Trail Riders Make Ready for Annual Trip in Rockies

Four-day Ride Over Practically Untrodden Way Planned

Canadian Press

WINNIPEG, July 29.—Plans are laid and many of the guests at Banff Springs Hotel have signed for the annual trip of the trail riders of the Canadian Rockies, which takes a spectacular route over a practically untrodden trail from the Banff-Minnewanka high road leading to the fork of Stoney Creek and Cascade river. The riders leave Thursday morning, July 30, to be in the mountain regions four days.

Through magnificent game and trout fishing country, the riders make 12 miles to the first night's camp. On Friday they follow the Cascade river through slides which abound in elk, cross Cuthead creek to flowery alpine meadows of flint flats 15 miles to the second camp below Block mountain. A side jaunt to Sawback lake will provide the more energetic members of the party with prime fishing.

Another fifteen-mile ride on Saturday, August 1, above Badger Pass will command some of the most thrilling of Rocky Mountain scenery, the trail dropping down to Pulsatilla Mountain to camp at the headwaters of Baker creek. At the junction of this creek and the Bow river, four days of riding on mountain ponies, camping by tumbling waters and beside glacial lakes rimmed in mild flowers will conclude with a ten-mile ride to the Pow-Wow, the final event of the trip.

Who Are You?

Metcalfe

There is a legend surrounding this name which tells how one John Strong, who lived in a far-off day, was attacked by a mad bull. With great presence of mind he seized the animal by the nostrils with one hand and killed it with the other. Afterward upon being questioned on the subject of his prowess, he modestly declared that he had simply "met a calf."

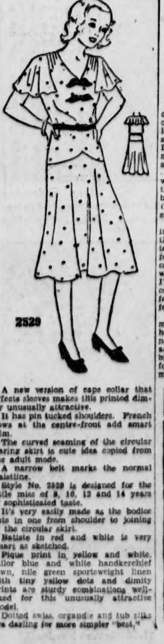
Other authorities say that the name is simply a compound of the two Welsh words medd and caf, meaning meadow and church. People living near the church in the meadow, or vale, assumed this place name as their own.

The first ancestor of the family on record was Adam, 1278, who spelled the name de Medikalf. Brian Metcalf is mentioned in that old document, the Hundred Rolls, 1465-66.

This family flourished in Yorkshire, England. It is recorded that Sir Christopher Metcalf, "in the third year of Queen Mary, met the judges at York, attended on by three hundred horsemen, all of his own name and kindred, well mounted and suitably attired." The most populous tribe of the Roman Fabi, could hardly have exceeded his turn-out.

What New York Is Wearing

By Annabelle Worthington



A new version of cape collar that affects sleeves makes this printed dimity unusually attractive.

It has pin tucked shoulders. French bows at the centre-front add smart trim.

The curved seaming of the circular flaring skirt is cute idea copied from the adult mode.

A narrow belt marks the normal waistline.

Style No. 2529 is designed for the little miss of 8, 10, 12 and 14 years of sophisticated taste.

It's very easily made as the bodice cuts in one from shoulder to joining of the circular skirt.

Batiste in red and white is very smart as sketched.

Pique print in yellow and white, sailor blue and white handkerchief lawn, nile green sportsweight linen with tiny yellow dots and dimity prints are sturdy combinations well-liked for this unusually attractive model.

Dotted swiss, organdie and tub silks are darling for more simpler "best."

Somehow Men and Women Seem to Take a Vacation From Their Moral Principles in Summer, And to Feel Free to Say and Do Things for Which They Would be Conscience-Smitten in Winter

There is something queer about summer that seems to make it melt down our moral principles just as it does our collars. Why we do things in June and July that we wouldn't dream of doing in December and January, nobody knows. We merely do them because it is the good old summertime, and we have left off our inhibitions along with our winter underwear, and anything and everything goes.

It is a kind of three months' moratorium in which conscience collects no debts, and in which we fondly believe the Recording Angel lets everything slide and enters no score against us. Thus do we feel free to commit follies in the dog days that would be impossible to us when the thermometer was down to zero, though why virtue should be a matter of temperature is a riddle no one can solve.

Still, no matter how inexplicable the fact may be, it is indisputable that summer does have a deleterious effect upon our morale. Take such a simple matter as veracity as an example of this. In the wintertime a woman may be Truthful Jane. Her speech may be yea yea and nay nay. She may be almost fanatically punctilious about the accuracy of her statements, and nothing would induce her to embroider a story to make it more fetching.

But let this same woman go off to a summer resort and she is transformed into Saphira, and if snap judgment was taken upon liars and they were stricken down dead for telling tarrydiddles, you would hear the feet of the young men coming in with the stretchers to bear out the body as soon as she opened her mouth. For every woman virtually at a summer hotel is, by her own assertion, a millionairess and a leader of society at home, and the only reason that she isn't dressed like Solomon in all his glory and bedecked with jewels is because she thinks it is bad taste to wear Paris clothes in summer, and she left her pearls and her tiaras in her safety deposit box so as not to be a temptation to thieves.

Why, I have heard women in summer, who were not 50 miles from home, talk about their second maids and their butlers and their chauffeurs when they did their own housework, and discuss the merits of their various imported cars when they walked to save street-car fare.

Then there is the summer widow and summer widower. Men and women who are absolutely contented husbands and wives and faithful to their Darbys and Joans nine months of the year, but who philander a little in the summertime and think it no harm, though they would be conscience-smitten if they did it in the winter.

But perhaps the worst thing that summer does is to people's manners. In winter we take it for granted that if our friends wish us to visit them they will ask us, the telephone and telegraph and the mail still functioning perfectly, but in summer we wish ourselves on people, regardless of their desires, if they happen to have a pleasant place in the country or on the seashore or in the mountains. We simply crash in on them because it is cheaper than paying hotel bills.

Nor is this all. If the Blanks asked us to dinner in winter, we would never be guilty of taking along five or six other people with us, expecting them to be fed and comforted with drink But we have no hesitation in stopping with a car full of people that the Blanks never saw or heard of, if we happen to be passing the Blanks' summer home and expecting the Blanks to set out refreshments for the party.

Funny what the summer does to us, isn't it? DOROTHY DIX.

SUMMER MOURNING

Question—My sister and I were dressed in black, with black veils, at our mother's funeral last month. Our little girls and boys wore white with socks, ties, shoes and berets all black. Is it necessary to keep the children in mourning? Do we have to wear veils and black clothes all summer?

Answer—American children do not wear mourning. During hot weather the adult sisters may dress in thin black or in all-white with black hats (no veils), black shoes and sheer black silk stockings.

Question—How long should a widow in her 60s wear a mourning veil after the death of her husband? Everyone tells me that deep mourning is worn for only three months, and then one can wear second mourning—black and white or gray or purple. Is this true? I'm going away in August and, of course, wish to avoid criticism, therefore, I come to you before I buy clothes for my trip.

Answer—A woman widowed after 60 may wear black for the remainder of her life, as many do, but that is not necessary. Still, if mourning is adopted at all, a widow should wear black (with a marquisette hat veil) for at least a year. There is no second mourning nowadays.

Milady Beautiful

MASSAGE FOR THIN LIPS

There are two types of lips that are particularly benefited by massage. One is the naturally straight, thin sort which make a girl look older than her years because we all associate such lips with firm, mature characters. Thin lips may be daintily shaped, but there is a suggestion of severity about them that is not so appealing as the softer, fuller lines of the average girl's moutht. Then there are lips that have become thinner with the passing years. There may be little puckers around them, too and a drooping tendency at the corners.

Lip massage may be had at any beauty shop, but very few of them give special attention to it. Since the materials needed for one of these treatments are few and simple, milady can easily be her own beautician as far as lips are concerned. A tissue cream or oil is required to lubricate the massage. Some prefer muscle oil, which has astringent properties as well as being oily. There should be absorbent cotton and an astringent lotion to apply after the massage.

Cleanse the skin first, then rub in the cream or oil. It is not necessary to memorize any set order of massage movements if one bears in mind that the purpose of the manipulation is to stimulate the tissues gently without stretching or causing wrinkles. Some of the movements should be done with lips relaxed, others are more effective when the circular band of muscle that forms the lips is tensed.

Begin the massage with a gentle but firm rotary movement, with the index finger over both lips. Have your mouth open a little and the lips drawn over the teeth. This rotary massage irons out the small puckers. Go over the lips four times.

Relax the lips and then pinch them gently toward the center, using the thumb and first two fingers. The ball of the index finger is placed in the groove in the upper lip. Repeat four or five times. Gently pull the lip away from the teeth and let it fall back to its natural position. Repeat twice.

When there are little lines forming at the corners of the mouth, massage over them with a circular movement. Try to smooth out the creases during the massage by swinging the lips to the opposite side.

A few minutes of lip exercises may precede or follow the massage, but the skin should be well oiled before they are done. Shoot the lips forward in an exaggerated pout. Then draw them back tight against the teeth. Repeat three or four times. Fill the cheeks with air, lips firmly closed. Let the air escape gradually through the smallest possible opening between the lips. Exaggerated chewing movements with the lips held tightly together exercise the lips and make them more mobile.

P. S. Bailey is Ousted by Public School Trustees

DEMOTED FROM PRINCIPALSHIP TECH. SCHOOL

Will Take Position on the Teaching Staff of Academic School

P. S. Bailey is "out".

Demotion from the principalship of the Edmonton Technical school staff to a position on the teaching staff of a strictly academic school, was moved by the Edmonton Public School board at its meeting Tuesday evening. The vote for the ousting of the now ex-technical school principal was split, four trustees voting for it and two against. Trustees Mrs. W. D. Ferris, C. A. Dickson, A. E. Ottewell and A. T. Cushing voted for the transfer of the ex-principal, while Trustees S. A. G. Barnes and Dr. F. Crang gave him their support in a hard fought battle to have him retain his post.

In the course of the discussion Trustee Dr. Crang expressed the opinion that the appointment of Mr. Bailey in the first place was a mistake and that a technical man should have been appointed. He stated that the board made a further error in not giving the matter attention years ago when the appointment was hanging fire between 1920 and 1923.

Mr. Bailey appeared before the board in person to present his side of the case. In his statement to the board he said that the inspection which resulted in the damaging report of Dr. W. G. Carpenter, provincial technical head, was made in his absence. He complained that matters contained in the report had, in the main, never been brought to his attention.

"In order that I may be given fairness and for the sake of my reputation," said Mr. Bailey, "I ask that at your own convenience you institute a thorough investigation into the report of Dr. Carpenter."

ASKED INVESTIGATION

"Two methods occur to me: one, that this board as a committee of the whole hold an investigation at a time when those involved may appear; or, two, that, owing to the seriousness of my position, a judge of the Supreme Court of the Province of Alberta be asked to conduct an investigation in which the circumstances of all parties involved could be called and interrogated.

"In conclusion, I dare state that I

ZEPPELIN NOW PUSHING WAY INTO ARCTIC

Giant German Dirigible Makes Successful Contact With Maligin

Associated Press Cable

MOSCOW, July 29. — The giant German dirigible Graf Zeppelin was nosing its way northward over the iceberg route Tuesday following its contact during Monday with the Russian ice-breaker Maligin which is carrying a party on an Arctic tour.

High in the Arctic region in the Franz Josef Archipelago, the dirigible and the ice-breaker met last night. The airship settled down and alighted upon the open sea near the ice-breaker, in the vicinity of Hooker Island.

Resting on its newly-attached pontoons, the dirigible remained stationary while mail was exchanged between the two vessels.

Small broken ice floes, pressing against the airship's gondolas, prevented it from remaining the full time it intended when it alighted beside the Maligin, radio dispatches said. Otherwise conditions were perfect, but the ice floes threatened danger and Commander Eckener ordered the Graf to rise again.

If the Zeppelin continues on the route originally planned, as it was indicated it would do when it left its home hangar, its next contact with civilization may bring to a Russian scientist, Prof. Urvantzev, who has been in the Arctic wastes for more than a year, some apples, strawberries and other delicacies from home.

Cancellation Of Summer Rates On Water Protested

A strong protest against the cancellation of the summer water rates for gardens is being made to the city council by J. A. Ross, solicitor, of Edmonton.

Mr. Ross, who is extremely interested in gardening and the general beautification of thecity, contends that 75 per cent of the gardeners of the city are burgesses and own the houses in which they reside.

He asserts that the cancellation of the rates is a blow to the gardeners, that it will discourage them in their efforts, and that council is entirely unwarranted in its action.

Bulls Eyes

There will be no meeting of the city council unemployment committee this week unless intimation is received from Ottawa as to the plans of the Federal government in regard to unemployment relief.

John Blue, who is now secretary of the citizens' committee to aid unemployment, states that a meeting of the committee will be called next week.

Commerce Chamber Members To Make Trip To Churchill

Members of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce are making a special trip to Port Churchill, on the Hudson Bay, prior to the holding of the annual convention of the Dominion organization at Regina on September 7 next.

It is anticipated that several members of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce will be included in the party.

Arrangements are being made for four trains, a special train made up in Eastern Canada, and one each by the Chamber of Commerce at Winnipeg, Regina and Saskatoon, and the last-named board of trade has extended an invitation to members of the Edmonton body to join the special train from that city.

The special will leave Saskatoon at 9 p.m. on Sunday, August 30, arrive at Churchill at 9 a.m. on Thursday, September 3, leave again at 5 p.m. the same evening, and return to Saskatoon at 10 a.m. on Sunday, September 6.

TRAM DEFICIT DUE TO KIND AUTO OWNERS

Prospective Passengers Given Lift "Up Town" Says Supt.

"Autoists who pick up waiting prospective street car passengers, at street carners are largely to blame for the deficit on the operation of the utility," said W. J. Cunningham, supt. of the street railway department, when asked by the Bulletin if there is any prospect of the fares being increased for the purpose of meeting the deficit.

Mr. Cunningham would not commit himself upon the subject, but was ready to admit that the future does hold possibilities of some action having to be taken along these lines, or even in further curtailment of the service.

"Thousands of fares are lost to the street railway by the kindness of auto owners in this city, some of whom even go to the length of picking people off the street car steps," said Mr. Cunningham.

WORST CITY IN CANADA

"This is the worst city in Canada for the practice," asserted the street railway superintendent.

Mr. Cunningham said that he is not denouncing the auto owner for this natural kindness in giving the pedestrian a lift, but it has created a condition in the city which is extremely adverse to the successful operation of the utility, and a condition that cannot be ignored.

"It must be remembered," said Mr. Cunningham, "that in the case of bad weather or when their autos cannot be used for themselves or their friends these same citizens expect the street railway to be on the job to give them service."

Cyclist Collides With Automobile; Bruised By Fall

Knocked down and bruised when he collided with a car at the corner of 99 street and Connor's Road while riding his bicycle Tuesday evening, Ronald Smith, 9635 91 street, was given medical attention at a near-by house.

R. H. Turnbull, 10544 81 avenue, driver of the car, stated that he was driving north on 99 street when the cyclist came from Connor's Road and collided with the side of his car. He was thrown to the pavement, the motorist said.

Two witnesses, however, reported that Turnbull had run into the cyclist.

A truck driven by Robert Le Maitre, Warwick Apts., was struck by a street car operated by Motorman A. Laing at 101 street and 104 avenue late uesday afternoon. Le Maitre reported that the tram had stopped and that he was passing in front when a car on the opposite side of the street prevented him from crossing.

The street car struck the truck, causing damage to both the truck and the tram.

REPORT PROBE FARM MARKETS

Committee Recommends Government Action

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Ont., July 29.—"In view of the evidence given before the committee it is recommended that the government take whatever steps it may deem necessary to prevent a drastic decline in the price paid to producers of wheat, especially during the fall months when the bulk of the crop is being marketed." This was one of the chief recommendations of the House of Commons committee on agriculture which today drafted its report recording its investigations into the methods of handling and marketing agricultural products.

The report also commends the activities of the officers of the department of agriculture in putting before the farmers their suggestions for solution of various problems.

The committee's report endorses the principle of grading with respect to eggs, poultry and hogs. With respect to livestock, it says, "The committee is of the opinion that an export trade of increasing volume and value in beef cattle is open to this country dependent on the following conditions:

"'(a) Careful breeding, feeding, selection and conditioning of Canadian cattle.

"'(b) Adequate shipping space.

"'(c) Reasonable transportation rates, both rail and ocean.

"'(d) A continuation and sufficient volume of available shipments the year round irrespective of the fluctuation in the market prices.'"

EXTENSION OF WHEAT BONUS BEING URGED

Chamber of Commerce Wants B.C. Peace River Block to Benefit

An urgent request is being sent to Ottawa by the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, says John Blue, asking that the five cent bonus on 1931 wheat shipped from the three provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, be extended to the Peace River block in British Columbia.

The government measure authorizing the payment of the bonus restricts it to grain delivered to elevators in the western inspection district which does not include British Columbia.

he Edmonton Chamber of Commerce is contending that the farmers in the Peace River block are entitled to the relief, inasmuch as they are further away from lakehead or tidewater than any other grain growers in the prairie provinces.

Planes Thrill Citizens With Advance Show

"Here they come," "Here's another—and another," "Look at them over there," exclaimed excited citizens on Edmonton streets at midday.

The rat chase was on. Away in the sky coming from the direction of the airport planes were swarming all over the city.

Red planes roared past, reflecting the glare of the noon-day sun, silver planes slid overhead with lances of silver light darting from their gleaming hulls.

Sirens screamed as the planes rocketed through the sky.

When the chase had subsided, the siren flight passed in formation over the city to the landing field.

FLOWER SHOW ON AUGUST 18

Location is Not Yet Decided on

According to an announcement of the Edmonton Horticultural and vacant Lots Garden Association, the Edmonton flower show will be held August 18, 19 and 20, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Location for the show has not been decided yet. Failing to obtain the use of the Prince of Wales Armouries, the association will endeavor to use the Masonic Temple.

Officials expect the exhibits this year to outdo in quality and beauty those of any other year. The weather and general conditions have been most favorable in their opinions. A first class showing should be made.

Judging of the garden classes, a preliminary flower show commenced Tuesday and the winners will be announced shortly.

TO CONFER WITH CIVIC OFFICIALS

Insurance Experts to Talk Over Pension Scheme

Representing the Associated Insurance companies, made up of the Canada Life, Confederation Life, London Life and the Mutual of Canada, all Canadian companies, N. Wallace Street, of Toronto, accompanied by H. B. Spurgeon, one of the foremost Canadian actuaries, will be in Edmonton on Thursday to confer with the city commissioners and the committee of civic officials relative to putting in the proposed pension scheme for civic officials.

Mr. Street is general representative of the four Canadian companies who have banded together for the purpose of underwriting pension schemes on a large scale. The two insurance men have been in Saskatchewan, where Mr. Spurgeon has been putting an insurance scheme into effect for the Associated companies, that city having decided after long deliberation and investigation to put in a civic employees' pension scheme.

The Associated companies also carry the pension scheme for the Ontario Hydro Electric system which embraces 43 municipalities and is one of the largest pension schemes in Canada.

The four Canadian companies banded together about five years ago, and since that time have put in pension schemes in a number of industries and municipalities in Canada at extremely low rates.

GRASSHOPPER OUTBREAK IN SOUTH ALTA.

Situation Well in Hand, However, Reports Agriculture Department

The recent grasshopper outbreak in Southern Alberta is at the present time well in hand, although at no time did the outbreak assume unduly serious proportions, according to a statement issued Tuesday by the provincial department of agriculture.

On June 10 reports of the presence of grasshoppers in sufficient numbers to cause serious damage were received by the department, and the field crops commissioner placed men in the field and shipped a supply of poison material and mixing machines to the areas affected from the warehouse at Calgary.

Seventeen municipal and improvement districts were affected by the outbreak and to combat the plague mixing sations were established at Carmangay, Travers, Iron Springs, Milk River, Bindloss, Hilda, Taber, Queenstown, Whitla, Claresholm and Coaldale.

QUANTITY OF POISON

A total of 710,000 pounds of poison material was consigned to these centers and distributed from them as required.

It is pointed out that a considerable number of grasshoppers are now in the flying stage, where it is impossible to successfully exercise further control. Large numbers of eggs are being laid, and officials believe that if the season is favorable to their hatching, a serious outbreak may occur in 1932. Complete preparations will be made to compete with the plague.

CLAIMS HIGH TARIFFS MAY WRECK TRADE

MacDonald Urges Powers to Unite for World Stabilization

Associated Press Cable

BERLIN, July 29.—High tariff walls will lead to universal bankruptcy and resources of all the countries should be used in the interest of international stability, Premier Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain told a delegation of correspondents here Tuesday.

In Mr. MacDonald's conversations with newspaper correspondents Tuesday he said his country is unshakeably opposed to the balance-of-power theory as inconsistent with disarmament. He said high tariff walls will result in world bankruptcy, and he said that most of Germany's economic troubles are psychological.

Germany's industrial position is fundamentally sound, he told the correspondents, and as soon as a proper psychological foundation can be laid, the nation may expect to overcome its present distress.

He made it clear that concrete results in the way of new credits are not to be expected from this visit but that whatever happens will be the result of steady, persistent effort.

Mr. MacDonald will fly home Wednesday.

A communique issued at the British Embassy Tuesday evening said the conferences thus far have been concerned with means of putting into operation the recommendations of the recent seven-power conference at London.

The ministers have reviewed the general trade position and measures to alleviate the present difficulty, and have discussed the disarmament problem in connection with next year's conference at Geneva.

Motor Association Reports Rough Rds.

Roads in the Peace River country are drying.

Red Cross Offers To Aid In Relief

The Red Cross organization has offered its services to assist in any relief measures which may be adopted by the government, the offer being made through Dr. J. L. No action can be taken with regard to the offer until information is received from Ottawa as to relief measures which the Dominion government proposes to put into force.

Autogiro Captures Fancy of Visitors To Big Air Show

"British Consols" First Ship of its Kind to be Seen in Western Canada—How it Works

While every machine with the big All-Canadian Air tour now in Edmonton drew plenty of attention at the municipal airport last night, it was to the "British Consols," the first commercial Autogiro to tour Canada that the crowds invariably turned finally and those who saw the machine in flight as it entered the city were enthusiastic in their praise of the manner in which the new machine was handled and the ease with which it settled down on the airport after arrival. It was the first machine of its kind ever seen here, and air-minded Edmonton was curious to know how it worked.

THE LATEST THING

To the aviator this machine is the latest and most important contribution to the science of aerodynamics. To the "man in the street" it is an entirely new form of aircraft, which renders places hitherto inaccessible to the ordinary aeroplane as safe to travel to by air as by any other means of transportation.

Since Cierva, the Spanish inventor, first demonstrated the principles of the autogiro twelve years ago, thousands of experiments have been conducted to develop the model represented by the "British Consols."

Wherever the "British Consols" has been seen, it has been the center of attraction. The four rotor blades on the top of the machine have a diameter of 45 feet and an approximate disc area of 1,500 square feet, making it totally unlike biplanes and monoplanes to which Canadians in general have been accustomed. Its ability to make a perpendicular descent in absolute safety makes it unique among the aircraft in the Trans-Canada tour.

AUTOGIRO IS SAFE

The flying characteristics of the "British Consols" may be summed up in the one word "safety." It cannot fall into a tail spin when forward speed is lost and its natural characteristic is a vertical descent, which is not only a great safety factor, but a con-

PURSE STOLEN FROM MOTORIST

Three Young Boys Believed Responsible

"Biting the hand that fed them," three young scamps stole a purse belonging to Miss L. Land, 12776 118 street, Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Land reported to city police that the three boys had been walking near the municipal airport and had asked her for a ride downtown. She drove them to 109 street a block north of Jasper avenue, and after she let them out she discovered that her purse had been stolen.

The purse was of black leather and contained $4 in cash as well as numerous other articles of personal value. The complainant described the boys as being about 13, 12 and 10 years of age, respectively.

Miss Stella Wagar, employee of Woodward's departmental store, reported to the police that her purse had been stolen from a shelf in the store Tuesday. The purse, of black leather, contained $19 in cash.

G. W. Elliott, 9639 105 street, informed the police Tuesday that a number of carpentry tools had been stolen from his residence. Following enquiry, city police officers arrested William Warner, alias Carl Varnke, in a 97 street furniture store. The man had the tools with him and stated that he was a carpenter and lived on the South Side. He gave a false address, however, and police brought him to the cells.

Elliott stated that the man had been employed by him for a short time. He is believed to be a drifter.

Seed Official Is Visitor In City

G. H. Stewart, of the Dominion Government Seed Grain Branch, with headquarters at Calgary, was a visitor to Edmonton Wednesday for the purpose of conferring with Hon. George Hoadley, minister of agriculture, and H. A. Craig, deputy minister, with regard to seed grain relief.

This relief was given out last spring by the government to the farmers. The Dominion and provincial governments and both railways co-operated in extending a free freight service to farmers. Details in connection with this service were discussed Wednesday.

Piloting a Puss Moth biplane, H. Warren arrived at the Edmonton airport at 11 a.m. on Tuesday, with Marshal Foss, manager of the air show, as his passenger, and returned to Calgary, leaving here at noon. The plane is expected to return with the others of the show at 4 p.m.

Diplomas Will Be Mailed To Students By Education Dept.

Diplomas for Grade 8 students meriting them and statements of credits in high school subjects are being prepared and will be mailed to students next week, according to an announcement made by the provincial department of education Wednesday.

This refers to all cases where promotions have been made on recommendation of teachers and where students have received a standing during the school year making it unnecessary for them to write the departmental June examinations.

This system, brought into being for Grades 8 and 9 this year, has worked satisfactorily and teachers have given the greatest co-operation, it is stated.

The results of the Grade 12 examinations have already been mailed to students, and will be followed in a day or two by the Grade 11 results and Grade 10 results next week.

SOLDIERS MAY BE DISPATCHED TO VEGREVILLE

Rumors Claim Strathcona's Horse to Combat "Red" Demonstration

Despite denials of officials, who stated they had not received any instructions and had no knowledge of the matter, rumors in some quarters in Edmonton were strong today to the effect that the squadron of Lord Strathcona's Horse, recently removed from Edmonton after being quartered here for some days, were being brought back again into the Vegreville area as a precautionary measure against any Red" rioting on August 1, when a monster "Red" demonstration is planned.

According to officials the influx of "drifters" into Vegreville since the notices of the demonstration were posted has been extraordinarily large, and so marked that indications are that it has been an organized movement. Winnipeg is suspected of being the source of the orders.

In the meantime municipal police at Vegreville are meeting all trains and giving the drifters five minutes to get out of town. Officials estimate the influx of floaters to be well over the 1,000 mark in the past four days.

GIVE PROTECTION

The officer commanding the Vegreville detachment of the Alberta Mounted Rifles states that troops cannot be called out except by an order of the District Officer Commanding at Calgary. However the troops can be relied upon to give full protection to Vegreville citizens from the "Red" army. Steps are being taken to safeguard the arms and ammunition stored in the town armoury.

As evidence of the spirit actuating ex-servicemen in the latest Communistic development at Vegreville, Edmonton officials state that Tom Hidson, a former sergeant in the King's Royal Rifles and one of the "Old Contemptibles" now in Vegreville paraded the town Tuesday and tore down all the "Red" posters which have been pasted over every available inch of space on the walls of the buildings in that town.

Hidson stripped the entire town of the seditious scare-posters.

He was accosted by "Red" leaders at the Ukrainian labor temple where large numbers of revolutionists had congregated and in the face of threats tore the posters from the walls.

Loyalist associations in other towns have pledged support to the British faction in Vegreville. Foremost among these according to word from Vegreville is Harry Pozer of Two Hills, who promises 40 men to assist in maintaining order when the "Reds" demonstrate there on Saturday.

May Save Leg Of Injured Athlete

Hugh O'Hara may yet kick a football again.

Prominent in sport circles in the city as a football player of no mean ability, O'Hara was involved in a serious accident at a northern fishing camp and was rushed to the city by "Wop" May in a spectacular dawn dash from McMurray.

The worst injuries are to one leg, and it was feared at first that the leg might have to be amputated, but now it is likely, as a result of the prompt attention given the injured athlete in the University hospital, that he may recover without the loss of a limb.

Hospital authorities reported Wednesday that the injured man is resting easily, and has improved.

FAINT NEBULAE PHOTOGRAPH'D AT MT. WILSON

100-inch Reflector is Used to Obtain Remarkable Results

Prof. Albert Einstein further expounded his theories of an expanding universe before the Prussian Academy of Sciences recently. The doctrine has been given support by the observations of Prof. E. P. Hubbell of Pasadena, Calif., where the spectra of faint nebulae which seem to be receding into space with velocities of 12,000 miles a second, have been photographed. This photographic work is described in the following article.

By HILTON U. HUMASON
Spectroscopist of the Carnegie Institution of Washington Observatory at Mount Wilson.

Copyright 1931, by the Associated Press

MOUNT WILSON OBSERVATORY, Cal., July 29.—The 100-inch reflector of the Mount Wilson Observatory has been used during the last two years to photograph spectra of faint nebulae. These photographs have shown that some of the very remote nebulae, at distances greater than 100 million light years (a light year is six million of million miles) aparently have velocities in the line of sight as large as 12,000 miles a second.

The direction of the motion is always away from the earth, that is, they appear to be receding, and Dr. Edwin P. Hubble has shown that the velocities become larger as the distance increases.

How are these spectrum photographs obtained and measured? In order to produce a spectrum an instrument called a spectrograph must be attached to the telescope. In the spectrograph is a prism through which the light of the nebula must pass. On emerging from the prism the light is broken up into colors, each color emerging at a slightly different angle, thereby forming a spectrum.

WITH CAMERA LENS

This spectrum is then photographed with a camera lens, also mounted in the spectrograph. If the spectrum of a faint nebula is to be photographed the scale must be kept as small as possible. This is accomplished in the Mt. Wilson spectograph by the use of a high speed camera lens designed by Dr. W. B. Rayton of Rochester, N.Y. It has a greater speed and better definition than any other short focus lens heretofore used in a stellar spectograph.

In order to obtain one of these photographs the spectrograph is attached to the 100-inch telescope, and this is pointed at the nebula. The light from the nebula must enter the spectrograph in exactly the place in order it will pass correctly through the prism and camera.

If the nebula is faint the exposure may last 20 to 30 hours.

The astronomer must keep the nebula, little more than a point of light among thousands shown by the telescope, in its correct place by constant watching during the entire exposure. The plate when finished is developed on the mountain.

In the spectrum of a nebula are certain lines which may be seen. Two of the strongest and most important are due to the element calcium. They are kown as the H. and K. lines, and the velocity of speed the nebula is travelling through space is determined by measuring the amount of shift, or displacement of the lines from their normal position.

PHOTOGRAPH SPECTRUM

In order to measure the amount of shift it is necessary to have a reference spectrum on the same plate with the spectrum of the nebula. This is usually done by photographing the spectrum of helium directly alongside of the nebular spectrum.

On the photograph is seen the spectrum of the nebula and that produced by a helium tube. The velocity of the nebula is determined by measuring the shift of the lines in the nebula with respect to the lines in the spectrum of helium. If the lines are shifted towards the violent end of the spectrum it would indicate a velocity of approach. If they are shifted towards the red end of the spectrum it would indicate a velocity of recession.

In the spectrum of practically every nebula that has been photographed the lines have been found shifted towards the red. In other words, the nebulae all appear to be moving away from the earth.

Two years ago Dr. Edwin P. Hubble found a relation between the apparent faintness, or distance of the nebulae, and their velocities. This relation showed that the velocities were linear functions of the distance and that the velocities increased at the rate of about 100 miles per second per million light years of distance.

LEO IS FAINTEST

The relation was only established to a distance of about six million light years, since the spectra of fainter or more distant nebulae were not available. Since then the velocities of nebulae at much greater distances have been obtained with the 100-inch reflector telescope. These velocities definitely establish and xtend the relationship out to a distance of over 100 million light years.

The faintest nebulae whose velicity has been observed is in the constellation of Leo. Dr. Hubble estimates its distance as about 105 million light years and its visual magnitude at about 15.5. This nebula is threfore 6,300 times fainter than the faintest star which can be seen with the naked eye. The velocity of this remote nebula was found to be 12,000 miles a second.

The results of this investigation are observational facts. From them Dr. Hubble has established close relation between apparent faintness of nebulae and red shifts in their spectra. The former are confidently interpreted as distances, but the interpretation of the red shafts as velocities of recession is controversial. For the present we prefer to speak of these velocities as "apparent."

You might think they were playboys at a picnic of the Amalgamated Pretzel Benders. Instead, however., they're very dignified bandsmen who appeared at the Command Horse Show at Aldershot, England. The horns—for they really are horns—were called "bass serpents" in the days when they were played for Queen Anne. In the centre is a musician with the modern counter part of the strange instruments.

UNBORN CHILD DIVORCE ISSUE

Father Wants Custody of Pre-natal Baby

Bulletin News Special

DENVER, Colo., July 29.—A dispute over the parentage of an unborn child further complicated the matrimonial difficulties of Henry C. Keyes and Mrs. Gladys Keyes Friday in County Judge George A. Luxford's court.

Keyes is asking for the custody of his 22-month-old son, William Robert. In a preliminary decree of divorce granted Mrs. Keyes in April, 1930, she was granted custody of the child.

Mrs. Keyes has never made the decree of divorce final.

Keyes charges Mrs. Keyes is to have another child of which he is not the father, and asks the court to give him custody of his son.

Mrs. Keyes testified Keyes is the father of the child expected in July.

Judgs Luxford postponed action on the case until after the birth of the child declaring the mother should not be troubled about such matters at present.

Big Chief of Zulus Wedded To 200 Wives

Bulletin News Special

DURBAN, South Africa, July 29.—Ten thousand Zulus gathered at the royal kraal, 200 miles west of here, when Solomon Dinizulu, the paramount chief, was wedded for his two hundredth time.

The ceremony occupied three days and consisted of feasting on hundreds of cattle, beer drinking and native dancing.

At the end of the ceremony the chief and his second century wife went to their hut for a little privacy.

VIRGIN MARY IMAGE SCARE CHICAGO MOB

Hundreds Kneel in Street When Shadows Seen on Building

Bulletin News Special

CHICAGO, July 29.—Police were puzzled and hundreds of persons stood awe of what was declared to be a miraculous appearance of an image of the Virgin Mary upon the side of a three-story brick building on the south side.

Everything was quiet and serene in the 1100 block of South Ashland avenue at night when a passerby suddenly noticed the image upon the wall and dropped to his knees.

Another passerby noticed him, glanced up at the wall at which the kneeling man was staring, and dropped down beside him. Others followed. Soon there were so many kneeling figures in the street that traffic was blocked. The police and fire departments were called out.

Oficers found out that the dim but clearly defined image of a woman holding a child disappeared when the lights were flashed upon it. They determined from this that the image about fifteen feet in height, was a reflection from some statue in the neighborhood.

In an effort to prove the image was due to natural causes and thus disperse the crowd officers began a search to find the statue from which the reflection was cast. The entire neighborhood was gone over. No statue was found.

More than 50 persons still were kneeling in the street when daylight came and the officers, after an all night search, still had failed to find anything "natural" about the image upon the wall except that it disappeared when light was thrown upon it.

MILLION CRIMINAL OPERATIONS DONE

American Women Pay 100 Million for Service

Bulletin News Special

NEW YORK, July 29.—Doctors of the United States perform one million criminal operations annually, according to Dr. Abraham J. Rongy, chairman of the Greater New York committee on health examination.

Dr. Rongy estimates that illegal operations performed annually in this county by others than physicians bring the total up to more than one and one-quarter million, and that American women pay to doctots each year approximately 100 million dollars for those operations, which "maim, cripple and kill thousands upon thousands."

According to Dr. Rongy the number of physicians held accountable for illicit operations represents an infinitesmal proportion of those who perform such operations. The criminal operation is disclosed only when there are fatalities, says Dr. Rongy.

Leading Players Advance to Fourth Round in Canadian Net Meet

EDMONTON
BULLETIN SPORTS

PATS and PANS by —BILL LEWIS

Interest of Edmonton's baseball-going public is centred tonight on the opening of the Senior Amateur League's series to declare a representative to enter the provincial championship playdowns. The game brings together the South Siders and Young Liberals, and there is a great show of interest among the baseball followers in the probable outcome of this encounter and the second game Friday. The winners of these two games meet in a final to decide which will play the Big Four Amateur League winners for the right to represent the city in the Alberta playdowns. It is so long since Edmonton has figured in a recognized provincial baseball championship competition that there is far more than the usual amount of concern being displayed by the fans in both the Big Four League's series and the Senior League's play-off that starts this evening.

Fans and players alike are looking for some surprises before the two play-offs are all over and forgotten, and I'm inclined to believe that they may be right.

It would be a mammoth upsetting of the dope if the Young Liberals by chance turned back the South Siders, who have topped all clubs in the circuit for these many weeks past, and it would be no less of a surprise if the Stockyard Bulls should up and smite down the Imperials in the second game. But there are some who believe that there is more of an outside chance of this occurring. They think that both the Liberals and the Bulls have the ability to come through with the necessary punch at times to win any ball game. This has been amply proven on occasions in the past, though the occasions have been all too infrequent of late.

However, all of the clubs are "hopped up" for the competition at the present time, and league officials, as well as most everyone else, are looking for some stirring battles before the winners are decided.

And while the local baseballers are struggling through their play-offs in the provincial championship competition, the local soccer elevens are doing likewise. Callies were the first to advance safely through the first round last Saturday when they handed the Radial Rovers a 3-2 beating. Another club will join them in the second round tonight, when the Canadian National and Canadian Legion squads clash in their fixture in the knock-out competition.

The soccer clubs greatly covet the Alberta Challenge Cup, which was donated to the Alberta Football Association by the Scottish F.A., following the last visit of a representative Scottish team to this country, and there will be quite a fight for the trophy and the provincial title before the ultimate winner is made known.

Edmonton's greatest hope in the Canadian tennis championships being played this week at Vancouver passed out of the picture on Tuesday when Harry Kinloch, the University ace and present city champion, was defeated by Walter Martin brilliant Regina star and member of the Canadian Davis Cup team.

However, Kinloch has played good tennis this year, and he need worry little over a defeat at the hands of the Davis Cup star.

One is forced to hand the palm to Wetaskiwin for going after big things in a big way. That ambitious young city was successful in securing the Canadian women's track and field championships, and those in charge of staging the big event are leaving nothing undone to assure it being a great success. Everything possible is being looked after in the right manner, and the meet should be one of the best in the history of the women's championships.

YOUNG GOLFER IS NAMED ON TEAM

Manitoba Association Selects Quartet

WINNIPEG, Man., July 29.—Sixteen-year-old Bobby Reith, born at historic Royal Blackheath course near London and wielder of a golf club most of the time since, is one of a strong quartet named Tuesday to carry Manitoba's banner into the Canadian Amateur golf championship play at Montreal next month.

The Manitoba Golf Association selected as its representatives in the interprovincial team tourney, Dave Arnott, who retained his Manitoba Amateur title last week; Chuck Hodgman, who lost to Arnott 'n the final; Carson MacWilliams, medallist in the qualifying round; and young Reith, who went to the semi-finals before he was beaten.

Alex Weir, former Manitoba champion, is one of the alternates named for the team competition. All the team entrants will compete in the Canadian Amateur.

Kaye Don Will Try for Record at Exhibition

TORONTO, July 29.—Kaye Don, holder of the world's speed boat record, will attempt to set a new mark during the Canadian National Exhibition here.

The English racer, who recently took from Gar Wood the honor of having set the fastest pace achieved by man on the water, has notified authorities here that he will endeavor to better his own record of 110.22 miles an hour. Don will use "Miss England II," the craft in which he raised his own mark by eight miles an hour in Italy recently.

Girls' Tennis Pair Forced to Default

Canadian Press

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 29.—Helen and Mercedes Marlowe, Los Angeles sisters, and United States' girls' doubles lawn tennis champions, were forced to default to Caroline Deacon and Eleanor Young, of Vancouver, in the women's doubles of the Canadian lawn tennis championships here Tuesday evening. With the score at six-all in the first set Mercedes slipped and sprained her right ankle, and was unable to continue.

Physicians said it was a bad sprain and that Miss Marlowe would not be able to further participate in the tournament. She was also entered in the women's singles.

DEFEAT FORTS TO WIN SERIES BY 5-3 COUNT

Play Royals in Winnipeg on Thursday and Saturday

Canadian Press

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., July 29.—Toronto Scottish, soccer champions of the East, qualified last night to meet New Westminster Royals, defending title-holders, in the Dominion finals by defeating Fort William Legion, 2 to 1, in the second of a two-game semi-final series here. Scottish won the first contest Monday night, 3 to 2, winning the round 5 to 3.

The Toronto squad clashes with Westminster at Winnipeg Thursday and Saturday in a best-two-out-of-three series. A third game, if necessary, will be played Monday.

Scottish were just as hard pressed to down the locals in the second encounter as in the first, and both games were typical cup ties.

OPENS SCORING

McIntyre, outside left of the Scottish, opened the scoring 23 minutes after the start of the match, netting when he followed in after a shot, trapped a loose ball, and tricked the full backs to give Goalie Boughton no chance.

It was only a few minutes later that a "hands" foul against a Scottish back inside the penalty area gave the Legion the privilege of a spot kick, and Bob Murray made no mistake, tieing the count at one-all. There was no further scoring until the last half.

A foul against McLaughlin inside the penalty area gave the Scottish an opportunity to put the series away but Boughton made a spectacular save of Captain Somers' kick. Just 15 minutes before full time, Erasmussen crowded his way through the Legion defence for the final goal of the game.

Scottish were deprived of the services of Weir, star left half, just before the game when he was a victim of sun stroke. He was too ill to accompany the team to Winnipeg last night.

Senior Clubs Start Series This Evening

Canadian Nationals will battle the Canadian Legion eleven tonight in the second game of the local series in the Alberta Challenge Cup soccer competition. The match will be played at Diamond Park and will start at seven o'clock sharp.

This series is worked on a "knock-out" basis, and, for this reason, both clubs will be out to win if at all possible in order to stay in the running for provincial soccer honors.

Callies won the opening clash of the local play-off from the Radial Rovers last Saturday, and, as the winner of this evening's fixture goes into the semi-finals, a hard-fought encounter is looked for.

Frank Green will referee.

BALL PLAYERS ARE SUSPENDED FOR FIGHTING

Pair of Big Four League Players "On Carpet" Last Night

Emphasizing the determination of the executive to stamp out all rowdiness in the Big Four Amateur Baseball League, two players who created a disturbance in a recent game were given stiff suspensions at a special meeting called in the league's National Hotel offices last night.

During the first game of last Sunday's double-header at Diamond Park, the two players, Kelly, of the Riverdale club, and McMillan, of C.N.R., engaged in a fight which started in front of one of the dug-outs and was continued behind the grandstand. The incident came to the attention of the league officials and, at the meeting last night, Kelly was suspended for three games in which his club participates, and McMillan for two games.

OFFICERS AWAY

With the league president, Eddie M. Beckwith, vice-president Art Skitch, and secretary Ed. Bolander out of the city on holidays, disposition of the case was left to Treasurer C. W. Lilley, who had Charlie Croft, vice-president of the Alberta Amateur Baseball Association, with him in an advisory capacity, and Umpire Jack Ducey on hand to give a report of Sunday's incident.

Umpire Ducey told of the affair and recommended that the league deal severely with the offenders.

After being strongly reprimanded for their conduct, the players were then given the suspensions previously mentioned.

Dairymen Enter Finals Of Softball Play-Offs

The E.C.D. nine took a close decision from the Pats last night in a deciding semi-final softball fixture by a count of 11 to 9. This brings the winners out to meet the C.N.R.A.A. representatives in the final for the Class "A" championship of the Y.M.C.A. League.

The Pats didn't go down without a struggle. They led at the start of the eighth 9 to 8, having picked up a bunch of four runs in the fifth and added a couple in the seventh.

COUNT THREE TO WIN

As it was, the Dairymen ran in three in their part of the eighth and then retired the youngsters in the ninth without letting more than one get on first.

Batteries were: E.C.D., Ritchie and Grossman; Pats, Beckett and Humphries.

The officiating was capably handled by Walter Hunter and Dick Magrath.

As both the C.N. and E.C.D. have a team in the provincial softball series it is difficult to arange for the final bouts. An early announcement will be made when the results of Wednesday's provincial games are known.

"B" SECTION FINAL

Engineers, of the Civic League, are the new holders of the "B" section shield as a result of their slim win over the Treasury Dept. boys of the Civil Service League with a score of 6-5.

The big excitement in this battle came in the ninth with the Treasury on top, 5 to 1. Engineers stepped in the way of the ball to such good effect that they collected five runs. In the last minute of play, the winners had two on bases, two out, and the batter had two strikes on him when he did the necessary and cinched the game.

Batteries were: Engineers, Menzies and Hargraves; Treasury Dept., Shaughnessy and Kregan.

Umpires: Jim Rennie and Gordon Smith.

Bat Well in Eighth Canto to Score Three Runs and Win Game

Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 29.—Charley Root, aided by the batting of Hornsby, Hemsley and Blair, won his fourth straight victory during the present home stand against the Eastern clubs by beating Philadelphia Tuesday afternoon 6 to 3.

The victory was Root's 12th of the season.

The Bruins put on the winning rally in the eighth. After one was out, Barton was hit by a pitched ball. Hornsby then doubled to left to score him with the winning run. Blair's home run counted the "Rajah" to make the game safe.

REDS WIN IN NINTH

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 29.—With two out in the ninth inning, Cincinnati Reds came through to score the winning run and beat the Brooklyn Robins, 5 to 4, Tuesday.

The Robins tied the count at 4-4 in the first half of the ninth on a single by Lopez, who batted for Luque and Babe Herman's triple. Cincinnati came back when Nick Cullop doubled, and came home on Tony Cuccinello's fourth hit of the game.

GIANTS, BUCS EVEN

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 29.—Rallying in the late innings behind Carl Hubbell's expert pitching, New York Giants Tuesday evened the series with the Pittsburgh Pirates with a 6 to 2 victory.

The Bucs scored twice in the fourth but Hubbell shut them out for the rest of the game.

The defeat ended Pittsburgh's five-game winning streak.

ADAMS WINS GAME

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 29.—Little "Sparky" Adams beat out a bunt in the eighth, went to second on a wild throw, to third on an infield out and raced home after a long fly by Jake Flowers to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 1 to 0 victory Tuesday over the Boston Braves.

From the first inning on, two veterans, Jess Haines for the champions, and old Tom Zachary for the Braves, engaged in a pitching duel. The victim, Zachary, held the Cards to six hits while Haines was nicked eight times.

C. N. R. climbed to within two games of the pace-setting Riverdale club and put themselves in front of the third-place Alberta Hotel squad by the same margin when they scored a 6-5 triumph over the league-leaders in last night's game at Boyle Street Park.

Scoring two runs in the final half of the eighth frame, the Railroaders regained the lead which they had held earlier in the game and held off the leaders in the first half of the ninth to pull out with the verdict.

It was a close and interesting contest from start to finish, with first one team and then the other holding the whip-hand, and it highly pleased the customers in attendance.

Walker, C.N.R. first-baseman, led his team's attack with three safe blows in as many trips to the plate.

Associated Press

PARIS, July 29.—Henri Cochet, the world's ranking amateur tennis player who almost single-handed turned back the bid of Great Britain for the Davis Cup in the challenge round completed Sunday, will decide within a fortnight whether he will turn professional, friends said Tuesday. There is an effort afoot to dissuade him from abandonment of his amateur status.

Canadian Press

One hundred and fifty places in the United States National Amateur golf championship, to be held at the Beverly County Club, Chicago, Aug. 31 to Sept. 5, were filled in a nation-wide qualifying round of 36 holes in 20 widely scattered districts yesterday.

Only in a few isolated instances did favorites fail to pass the initial test, held this year for the first time in the history of the event. The 150 qualifiers, together with two Britons who were exempt from qualifying, John and Alaric De Forest, will go through another 36-hole qualifying round at Chicago on the first two days of the championship, the low 32 continuing to the match play rounds.

C. Ross Somerville, of London, Ont. qualified at Detroit, along with eight others. Somerville had scores of 80-77—157 and placed third in the group.

Jack Cameron, of Montreal, tied with two others for the gold medal in the qualifying play at Buffalo. His scores were, 71-75—146.

T. Philip Perkins, former British amateur champion, qualified at Short Hills, N.J.

SENSATIONAL RALLY GIVES CHICAGO WIN

White Sox Score 11 Runs in Eighth Inning to Win, 14-12

Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 29.—At the start of the eighth inning Tuesday it looked as if New York Yankees were about to win a one-sided ball game from Chicago White Sox. They were leading 12 to 3 behind Herb Pennock and the game appeared safe. But at that point the Sox started hitting and, before four Yankee hurlers could stop them, they had scored 11 runs and won 14 to 12.

Fothergill hit a homer in the eighth.

SECOND FOR A's

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 29.—A three-run rally in the eighth inning Tuesday, started by Al Simmons with his 15th home run of the season, gave Philadelphia Athletics their second straight triumph over St. Louis, 6 to 3. The victory was the champions' 15th in a row on the home grounds.

Goose Goslin hit Earnshaw for a home run with one on base in the eighth, wiping out the Macks' 3-1 lead.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Joe Cronin's booting of a hard-hit drive in the first inning cost "Sad Sam" Jones a shut-out victory Tuesday as Washington Senators trounced Cleveland Indians 8 to 1.

Cronin redeemed his misplay in the fifth inning with a triple, driving in three runs.

BOSTON, Mass., July 29.—Horace Lisenbee held Detroit Tigers to three hits Tuesday while his mates were garnering 18 off Earl Whitehill and Boston Red Sox defeated Detroit 8 to 1.

Earl Webb, of the Sox, had a perfect day at bat. His two doubles brought his total for two-base hits for the season to 47.

STRAIGHT-HEAT WINS FEATURE

Predominate Tuesday in Races at Regina

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

REGINA, Sask., July 29.—Straight-heat victories predominated on the second day of the Regina harness race meeting at the provincial fair.

Silver F., owned by F. Crozier, of Carnduff, Sask., swept the 2:25 pace or trot without the loss of a heat while the 2:14 pace or trot was captured along a similar route by George E. Plummer, the property of W. W. Fleming, Winnipeg.

Only one Alberta horse raced on Tuesday. This was Mackie Direct owned by F. T. Colley, of Stettler. Participating in the 2:25 pace or trot it finished 3-5-4 paying $2.55 to show in the first heat.

Continued good weather prevailed and the track was again fast. The daily double paid $10.70.

Soccer Rivals Clash Tonight In Cup Match

South Siders and Young Liberals tonight will open the Senior Amateur Baseball League's "knock-out" series in the provincial championship playdowns when they clash in a game at Boyle Street Park that is timed to start at 6:30 o'clock.

Stockyard Bulls and Imperials meet in the second game Friday night, and the victor in that plays this evening's winner in the final on Sunday afternoon.

The winner of this series meets the Big Four League's winners for the right to represent Edmonton in the Alberta championship competition.

With the losing club being forced out of the competition in each game, all clubs are naturally anxious to win at all costs, and an interesting battle is expected by close followers of the circuit when the two teams meet to commence the series tonight.

Theatre Teams Battle to Tie

The Monarch and Dreamland theatre baseball teams played to a 13-all tie at Boyle Street Park Tuesday afternoon.

This was the seventh game of the series and the Dreamland squad still leads by four games to two.

Jack Supperstine and Louis Starr formed the battery for the Dreamland, and Joe Noun and Phil Dickinson for the Monarch.

Tom Carrigan, Popular Local Athlete, Passes

Tom Carrigan, a popular figure in Edmonton athletic circles for the past 10 years, passed to the Great Beyond on Tuesday evening, following a long illness. He was 30 years of age.

A member of the popular athletic family on the South Side, Tom was prominent in different lines of sports in this city, and, more recently had been connected with professional hockey in California, from where he returned home about a month ago.

He first came into athletic prominence here in senior amateur baseball ranks about 10 years ago and starred in that sport as well as in hockey. He played amateur and semi-professional baseball with the old K.C. club, Central Garage and Elks, and was with various senior hockey clubs in the city before turning to the professional game a few years ago as a goaltender.

His work with the Hollywood team of the California Hockey League was appreciated by those in charge and last winter he was appointed manager of the club.

Taken seriously ill following his appointment to that position, Tom was confined to his bed much of the time and it was only recently that he was able to return to his home in Edmonton, where he has always spent the summer off-season.

Well liked by all with whom he came in contact, Tom Carrigan's untimely passing will leave a gap in Edmonton sport circles.

FEW UPSETS AT TOURNEY ON TUESDAY

Harry Kinloch Defeated in Third Round by Davis Cup Star

By JOHN C. SCOTT
Canadian Press Sports Writer

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 29.—Leading stars in the men's singles in the Canadian lawn tennis championships being played here survived their second day's play Tuesday and advanced into the fourth round. Likewise, the four seeded stars in the women's singles gained the third round.

Tuesday saw completion of the third round in the men's singles and second round play in the women's singles, while a good start was made in the singles play in the boys' and girls' division and in the mixed doubles.

HAVE LITTLE TROUBLE

The five seeded Canadian players together with the three seeded stars from the United States, generally had little trouble in reaching the fourth round in the men's singles. Dr. Jack Wright, of Montreal, seeded Number One, was given an argument but won out from Hugh Grant, Vancouver, 6-3, 6-4.

Marcel Rainville, also of Montreal, and seeded Number Two, walked through his third round opponent, Henry Rosenberg, Tacoma, Pacific Northwest junior champion, 6-1, 6-1 while John Murio, San Francisco Hawaiian star, seeded Number Three, defeated H. R. Robertson, Vancouver, 6-2, 6-4. Gilbert Nunns, of Toronto, next of the seeded stars, won from B. A. Rhodes, Vancouver, 6-, 6-1.

MARTIN BEATS KINLOCH

The other seeded players to advance were Wally Martin, Regina, who defeated H. Kinloch, Edmonton, 6-1, 6-1; Henry Prusoff, Seattle, who downed S. La Fille, San Francisco, 6-0, 6-4; Mel Dranga, Seattle, who had a rather tough battle on his hands to take victory from Don Campbell, Victoria, 8-6, 6-1; and Ossie Ryall, Vancouver, who defeated J. Ames, Vancouver, 6-0, 6-1.

The leading women players who advanced to the second round in the singles were Edith Cross, San Francisco, who defeated Mrs. John Edwards, Victoria, 6-1, 6-4; Olive Wade, Toronto, the defending title-holder, who won from Peggy Henry, Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-2; Marjorie Leeming, Victoria, who downed Mrs. Wm. Henry, Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-2; and Helen Marlowe, Los Angeles, who won from Marjorie Greig, Vancouver, 6-2, 6-3.

MAJOR UPSET

The day's major upset occurred in the second round of the women's singles, when Jean Burritt, of Toronto, one of Canada's leading women players, was eliminated by Mrs. Ben Rose, a Vancouver unknown. Mrs. Rose won 6-3, 6-4.

A leading Western Canada player who passed out of the picture Tuesday was W. Gyles, of Winnipeg, perennial Manitoba title-holder, who succumbed to the hard southpaw stroking of Joe Coughlin, of San Francisco, in the second round of the men's singles. Mrs. G. Woodbury, of Halifax, was put out of the running in the women's singles by Marie McNab, Vancouver, who won 6-1, 6-3.

FOR GINGER'S SAKE

By ETHEL HUESTON

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GINGER ELLA TOLLIVER, daughter of a minister and step-daughter of the wealthy and indulgent former PHIL VAN DOORN, organized a Junior Country Club in the town of Red Thrush, Iowa, just to keep life among the younger set from becoming too dull.

BARD HOLLOWAY, a young artist who was hoboing around the country, stopped in Red Thrush. Attracted by Ginger, he agreed to stay and paint portraits and decorate the new clubhouse. He gave the name "Joie de Vivre" to the club, and suggested sending to Chicago for NICOLO CALLENO, who could cook and sing and strum a guitar.

But Nicolo could not come. In his place arrived three of his countrymen. ANGELO could play; PIETRO could cook; and BENITO could sing. Ginger took them on. Beginning to realize he was in love with Ginger, Bard suggested leaving. But Phil, knowing Ginger, persuaded him to stay as their guest. But for Ginger's good she wrote to SPEED RONEY, a former friend of Ginger's, and invited him. She felt he would give Bard some competition.

Ginger thereupon invited PATTY SEARS to take care of Speed, but Patty wouldn't come, pleading loyalty to EDDY JACKSON. Whereupon Ginger went to Eddy about it. Getting word that Speed was bringing his sister, she persuaded both Eddy and Patty to come. Eddy, however, decided to bail things up by making things miserable for Ginger and keeping her and Bard separated.

Meanwhile, Benito had made a trip to Chicago and returned with a plan to kidnap Ginger and hold her for ransom.

When Speed and his sister arrived Ginger got another surprise. Sister's name was COTTON. She was different from what Ginger suspected. She was a little afraid that Cotton would prove attractive to Bard, and Eddy devilishly arranged for Bard and Cotton to be together while he stuck to Ginger and paired Patty off with Speed.

Speed tells Bard Ginger and Eddy are in love and Bard plans to leave as Eddy keeps up his mischievous plot. And at that point of the proceedings Ginger disappeared.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 31

"LET'S have a look around the house," said Eddy Jackson. "She just may be somewhere about, you know."

But a rigid search of the premises from attic to cellar revealed no Ginger.

"I think we'd better call Doorndee," said Bard. "Maybe she has gone home."

Eddy looked more hopeful. "Yes, probably," he said. "She may have stumbled upon some one she knew on the road and gone home for a joke on us. Though it isn't quite like her. I'll call Phil."

"Be careful what you say," cautioned Cotton. "Don't frighten her."

But at Eddy's first word of inquiry Phil's voice did show fright.

"Eddy, what do you mean?" she cried. "Isn't Ginger there?"

Eddy tried to explain that she must merely have wandered off for a solitary stroll and would soon return, but Phil was not to be reassured.

"But, Eddy, hasn't she been there since morning? Six hours! Oh, she wouldn't go off like that! Something has happened to her. We'll come right out."

Phil's alarm communicated itself to him, and he showed considerable uneasiness when he returned to the group. "She's not there. They are coming out. Phil's—frightened."

Patty burst into tears. "Oh, Eddy, you—you don't suppose she would—do anything to herself, do you? They left her right by the river—and she's been so unhappy."

"Oh, nonsense," said Eddy, nervously impatient. "Ginger do a thing like that? I'm surprised at you, Patty."

"But she's been so unhappy," Patty protested tearfully.

"What did she have to be unhappy about?" asked Bard, dully, from the depth of his own great woe.

"About—Oh, about—" Patty looked in confusion from Bard to Eddy. "Well, she's been unhappy anyhow. She cried—after we went to bed—every night, and made me promise not to tell."

Eddy looked more than a little ashamed of himself, but Bard was entirely nonplussed.

"I don't see what she had to worry about. Everything seemed to be going just fine—for her."

"Oh, Bard," said Patty, weeping afresh, "it was all on your account. You've been just horrid, you know you have. The way you flirted with—with Cotton. Oh, please excuse me, Cotton! But Bard did flirt, and Ginger felt terribly."

"See here!" cried Bard wildly. "Are you all crazy, or am I? You come to me and ask me to hang around Cotton so Ginger won't be jealous on account of Eddy, and when I do it, you tell me it made Ginger cry."

"Who told you any such truck as that?" demanded Eddy Jackson.

"I did," admitted Speed bravely. "You and Ginger have been in love for years—you know you have—"

"What a fool!" cried Eddy. "That was when he were kids. And Ginger was never in love with me in her life. We just grew up together, that's all."

"Do you mean," demanded Bard, advancing toward Speed in a very menacing manner, "that you lied to me about Ginger?"

"No, I didn't lie," denied Speed excitedly. "It was the truth—at least I thought it was the truth."

Patty ran to the door. "Oh, please, boys, go look for her, and don't stand there quarrelling. Ginger," she called plaintively into the woods, "Ginger, darling!"

"Eddy, tell me the truth," said Bard, "do you mean—I did pretend to be making up to Cotton after Speed asked me to—do you mean that you and Ginger—"

"Pffft!" said Eddy, snapping his fingers. "I used to be crazy about Ginger, and I still think she's about the greatest little scout I ever knew. But she never thought of me like that."

Bard turned a vicious look toward Speed. "I'd just like to know if that little cur did it on purpose," he said between his teeth.

"Naw," said Eddy reassuringly, "he wouldn't do it on purpose. Just a little dumb, that's all. He likes Ginger, he was just trying to do her a good turn. Where the devil do you suppose she can have got to?"

In a very few minutes, Phil's big car tore up the wood lane, and Mr. and Mrs. Tolliver were quickly surrounded. They were surprised at Ginger's absence, and a little uneasy, but on the whole they inclined to the idea that nothing really serious could have happened to her on such familiar and friendly ground. They demanded a full account of just what had happened after arrival at Mill Rush, and the others were prompt and unanimous in their recital of events.

Ginger had gone for a walk in the woods with Cotton and Speed. They returned laughing, in the best of spirits, and they had left her at the boat-landing, Ginger asking them to send Eddy down to her. Cotton and Speed agreed that they had left her quite doubled up with laughter, chortling gleefully over a joke on Eddy Jackson.

"But she hasn't been in good spirits at all," protested Phil. "She's been terribly unhappy."

"We cheered her up," insisted Cotton. "We told her something that put her in the very best of spirits immediately."

"What in the world did you tell her?"

"Mrs. Tolliver," said Cotton simply, "of course I will tell you if you insist, but it hasn't a thing in the world to do with the case. It was just a little secret between us three."

"To tell you the truth," said Speed slowly, "now that I really understand the lay of the land, I think what really cheered her up was my telling her that I had asked Bard to keep Cotton away from Eddy Jackson. Don't you remember, Cotton? She made me tell her three times over, and then she took my hand and burst out laughing, and said, 'Oh, Eddy! Oh, how gorgeous!' over and over again."

"But why in the world did you ask Bard to do such a thing?" ejaculated Phil.

"Because," confessed Speed shamefacedly, "I thought she was jealous because Cotton made such a fuss over Eddy. I wasn't on about Bard."

Phil rolled expressive eyes toward heaven. "Go on," she said at last in a strangled voice. "You left her at the landing."

That was really all there was to tell. They had joined Bard where he was painting at the edge of the wood and waited for Pat and Eddy to come back from their walk. Ginger did not come. Eddy went to the landing—perhaps an hour later—and she was not there. No one had seen her since.

"And where were—all the others?" asked Phil quietly.

The others, it seemed, had been all over the place doing their accustomed work. Pietro had prepared luncheon for them, Benito had fed and watered his birds and caught fish for their supper, and Angelo worked in the garden. They had assisted in the search for her in the woods and throughout the cottage.

Phil's first inclination was to notify the sheriff immediately and get in touch with the state police who patrolled the highway, but Mr. Tolliver hesitated to adopt so drastic a measure until it was found to be absolutely necessary.

"Ginger is so proud," he said. "If she has just gone off alone to wear out a fit of the sulks the publicity would embarrass her terribly."

"But Ginger would not do that," said Phil. "I know her. She could never be so cross or worried that she would deliberately alarm us like this without reason. Something has happened to her."

"What I am afraid of is that she has fallen in the woods and hurt herself, sprained an ankle, or fainted," said Eddy. "That's the only way I can account for it. I agree with Phil—she wouldn't do this on purpose."

"Go and look in the woods again, boys, and have Benito call her. We must try to figure out how best to go about this."

A shrill and piercing shriek from Jenky drew them to the open door. She was flying up the gravel path from the barnyard, one arm thrown protectingly over her head, one hand stretched out at full length before her, and gripped between her thumb and forefinger as if it were something poisonous was a bit of common string, from the end of which dangled a scrap of brown wrapping paper.

LLOYD GEORGE OPERATED ON WEDNESDAY

Condition of Former Prime Minister Satisfactory Says Bulletin

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, July 29.—David Lloyd George, leader of the Liberal party and former Prime Minister, was operated on today for haematuria, a kidney ailment.

"A operation was performed on Mr. Lloyd George this morning and the cause of the haematuria was completely removed," said an official bulletin.

"Considering its severity, the patient's condition is so far satisfactory."

All members of the family arrived at the house over night, and during the operation they sat in a room adjoining the bedroom in which the surgeon worked.

The doctors included Lord Dawson of Penn, physician-in-ordinary to the King; Dr. Swift Joly, a Harley street surgeon who is an expert on haematuria; Dr. Howard Humphries, and Major Sir Thomas Carey-Evans, son-in-law of Lloyd George.

There were three nurses.

The former Prime Minister's son, Major Lloyd George, said the patient had a good night. "His condition before the operation was satisfactory," the Major explained, "and in the circumstances he was quite cheery."

The operation, generally regarded in medical circles as being serious, was started soon after eight o'clock.

New Governor Addresses Shareholders

By THOS. T. CHAMPION,
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 29.—"In my considered judgment we are going to have a troubled time," declared Major Ashley Cooper, new governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, at a crowded meeting of stockholders today.

"We are in a very difficult position internally and operating times are extraordinarily difficult," the governor confessed. "So far from any prospect of a dividend next year, a heavy loss is inevitable."

MORE ABOUT

venience as well. With the engine dead, or shut off, the "British Consols" descends gently to earth, slower than a man coming down in a parachute, and lands under full control.

The "British Consols" takes off in a very small area, therefore any cleared space makes a suitable landing field. The acute angles of climb, short radius in making turns, and ability to check the forward speed and settle gently to earth before an obstacle eliminates the necessity of a large field.

IS ALL ALONE

The "British Consols" Autogiro is vastly differet from other aircraft. The engine, fuselage and propeller look like an ordinary aeroplane, but there the similarity ends. The wings are short and stubby and the rotor blades above the engine give it an appearance all its own. At rest the rotor blades droop downward at a slight angle, but in flight they revolve at constant speed and cone slightly upward. They appear to the eye to rotate very slowly, but actually the tips are travelling at a speed of 200 miles an hour. The changing angle of incidence of the blades, and the contant rotation, hold the secret of successful Autogiro flight.

HOW IT WORKS

Before flight the initial rotation of the rotor blades is derived from the engine. Once in the air, however, the rotor is independent of the engine and the lift of the air is constantly at work on the blades as long as the engine is flying, so that the blades revolve at all times. The rotor blades are fastened to the control axle by universal joints. While rotating the power of centrifugal force holds the blades extended horizontally with the force of several tons. Yet, being free to move, they adjust themselves to changing loads and direction of lift. This freedom to move results in complete stability and maximum control.

Pilot Godfrey W. Dean, late C. A. F., who is in charge of the "British Consols," was specially loaned by the Canadian Airways Ltd., Surveys Division, and'Mere, to demonstrate the Autogiro for the period of the Trans-Canada Tour. Pilot Dean is most enthusiastic about the performance of the machine and declares that the Autogiro has evolved new possibilities in aeronautics, which places flying within the reach of all. He advised that the Autogiro is sold and serviced in Canada by the Fairchild Aircraft Limited, Longueil, Montreal.

Goodwood Stakes Won By Noble Star

Canadian Press Cable

GOODWOOD PARK, England, July 29.—F. H. Cundell's Noble Star, a four-year-old bay colt by Hapsburg out of Hester, won the Goodwood Stakes, one of the English turf's great long-distance handicaps, today.

Noble Star finished three lengths in front of Mrs. G. S. Whitelaw's Castlederb, who in turn was two lengths in front of Montague Evans' Blue Vision. Fourteen horses travelled over the gruelling distance of two miles and thre furlongs.

P. S. BAILEY

do not consider the statements are of a very important nature when all the circumstances surrounding the school be considered."

"I am convinced," continued Mr. Bailey, "that inasmuch as this is the first report in 22 years, eleven of which I have spent as principal of the Technical school, which I have been called upon to answer before the trustees, it cannot be incumbent on the board to take drastic action."

SAYS BOARD LENIENT

At the conclusion of this statement by the former principal, Trustee A. T. Cushing took his stand on the matter. Said Mr. Cushing:

"I favor the proposal to transfer Mr. Bailey. This action is very lenient and should be considered very fair. It is common knowledge that the teaching staff of the Technical school is unsatisfactory.

"I am firmly convinced that this condition does exist in the Technical school and I personally demand that Mr. Bailey be transferred to an academic school without any further delay.

"That the board is to blame," continued Trustee Cushing, "is plain to see. The mistake in the first place was to permanently appoint Mr. Bailey as the principal in view of the inadequacy of his qualifications. I cannot allow this thing to go on. We need a shakeup! Steps should be taken immediately to find a successor to Mr. Bailey and institute a special citizens' advisory committee for technical education."

VICTIM OF ATTACK

Alleging that Mr. Bailey is the victim of persons working to force technical education out of the city, Trustee S. A. G. Barnes sprang to the defence of the principal.

"During his time under the school board, Mr. Bailey has been faithful, honest, intelligent in his application and earnest in his work," he said.

"Dr. Carpenter who made this damaging report has no better qualifications than has Mr. Bailey. During his employment on the Edmonton Technical school staff Carpenter never gave it his support, and now he is called to make a report on something he does not and cannot understand." Trustee Barnes continued. "Dr. Carpenter's degree is only honorary. He has no better education than the man on whom he reported.

"Carpenter is a servant of the department of education that for the past number of years has handed over, lock stock and barrel, the Dominion grant for 'Tec education to Calgary. Carpenter is a tool of this unfair government that for years has left Edmonton out in the cold. "And such a man was called to make a report on Mr. Bailey. Why it's laughable! Carpenter hasn't the ability to make a report. He can't do it. He had to bring four people to help him.

SEES DIRTY WORK

"This," cried Barnes, "is a deliberate manoeuver of a tool of the government to hit Edmonton and do the board out of the grant. Carpenter, who shamefully betrayed his own city and handed Dominion funds over to Calgary is finding fault, is libelling the city school system and is damaging Mr. Bailey with the sole intention of doing the city out of the grant this year.

"I ask that Mr. Bailey be given a year's chance to make good," Barnes concluded.

Trustee Crang also sprang to the defence of Bailey.

"Mr. Bailey can and will make good if given the chance. The board is trying to make another position for C. O. Hicks when it suggests that he be given the supervision of the 'Tec,'" he said.

"The board has always given other teachers a chance to make good, so why not do the same in this case. If we let Mr. Bailey go now the whole system will be disrupted."

GIVEN EVERY CHANCE

Trustee Dickson—"Mr. Bailey has been given every chance to make good. I cannot see that any transfer to another staff would be a disgrace to him.

"We are not doing right by the Edmonton pupils unless we do everything possible to obtain the government grant. If we acted on the report of Dr. Carpenter we would stand a better chance of getting the grant. It would be no kindness to Mr. Bailey to do as Trustee Crang suggests, and put off the inevitable for another year."

Trustee Mrs. Ferris was of the same opinion as Mr. Dickson. "We should appoint at once a specialist, trained in the field of technical education, comply with the government suggestion and obtain the grant," was her stand.

GRANT NOT IMPORTANT

The chairman's turn came next and Chairman A. E. Ottewell struck a new note.

"The grant so emphasized by the other trustees is the minor consideration. We must stress and observe the fact that a government inspector has found our technical school education lacking. Every effort must be made to rectify this, not to get the government grant but to make it possible for pupils to get their credits on the year's work," he said.

"We could operate without the grant. But we cannot continue with the standard of work in the Technical school falling down. We owe it to the ratepayers and to the pupils themselves to give the children every advantage and I state here and now that I will vote for the transfer of Mr. Bailey from the principalship of 'Tec to the staff of an academic school," he concluded.

MOTION FINALLY CARRIES

The amendment to the motion of the transfer, that of obtaining the service of a Supreme court judge for investigation was then defeated.

The amendment to the amendment—to give Mr. Bailey one year to show improvement in the work turned out by the pupils and to await the next inspector's report, was likewise defeated.

The original motion was then put and Mr. P. S. Bailey passed from the principalship of the Edmonton Technical school to a position in an academic school, by a two to four vote.

Sparks From Shovel Sets Dynamite Off

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Ont., July 29.—With a roar that shook the capital's uptown area and Parliament Hill, a five-pound box of dynamite was set off by a spark from a steam shovel late Tuesday afternoon and 200 windows were shattered within an area of a city block. No one was injured.

The dynamite was to have been used in the demolition of an old bank building at the corner of Wellington and O'Connor streets.

LINDBERGHS TEST PLANE NORTH BEACH

No Elaborate Reception Planned at Ottawa When Lindy Arrives

Associated Press

NORTH BEACH AIRPORT, N. Y., July 29.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh arrived here at 9:05 a.m. E.S.T., today to test his Lockheed Sirius plane and its radio set, in preparation for his flight to North Haven, Me., with Mrs. Lindbergh.

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Ont., July 29.—In keeping with the dislike of Col. Charles Lindbergh for the elaborate, an informal but none the less hearty reception awaits his arrival here with Mrs. Lindbergh.

NO OFFICIAL GREETING

At the request of the "Flying Colonel" there will be no ostentatious official welcome when he soars down on the broad bosom of the Ottawa river, the pontoon equipped plane in which he and his wife plan an unique aerial vacation trip to the Orient. In communicating to government air officials his intention to make a one-night stop here, Lindbergh asked that no preparations be made for his coming. To Col. Hanford MacNider, United States minister to Canada, who will be Ottawa host to the Lindberghs, a similar request was made.

A party from the U.S. legation headed by Col. and Mrs. MacNider and a number of government officials will be at Rockliffe airport to greet the holidaying couple when they arrive from North Haven, Maine, probably soon after noon. A large number of Ottawans also will undoubtedly be on hand to pay their respects and catch a glimpse of Mrs. Lindbergh, who will be making her first visit to the Canadian capital. It will be the second visit for Lindbergh himself.

The one-time "Lone Eagle" and his mate have let it be known they will not keep to any set schedule but it is likely they will hop off for Moose Factory early Thursday morning.

Thousand Men Out Fighting Bad Fire

Associated Press

SPOKANE, Wash., July 29. — A scarlet tinged smoke screen darkened north Idaho and Montana skies today as the 30,000 acre Deer Creek fire and several smaller blazes swept along steadily.

A thousand men wielded flame-heated shovels and axes in challenge to the Deer Creek fire, largest in the northwest. A favorable wind was aiding them, but they were retreating because the mountainous country made trenching almost impossible.

Two fighters suffered injuries yesterday when a falling tree struck them. A force of 550 men on the northeastern front fell back as the blaze crossed Hell Roaring and Spead creeks and approached within a few miles of the Canadian border west of the Yaak river in Montana.

HIGH STANDARD OF EDUCATION IS PLEA MADE

J. W. Barnett, Edmonton, Delivers Address to Teachers' Convention

Canadian Press

MONCTON, N.B., July 29—Recognition that "A sense of professional responsibility is taking shape," and a strong plea for creation of a "National educational consciousness" in the profession were chief notes in the presidentoal address of John W. Barnett, Edmonton, head of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, Tuesday. The Federation opened its annual conference yesterday.

"In our profession as in all others there are great divergencies of intellectual capacity. This is inevitable and renders possible the emergence of great leaders," said the president. "But there should be a very limited possibility of divergence in conduct. There must be a standard, and a high one to which all members are expected to attain. Hitherto there has been no machinery in the teaching profession, as is found in other professions, for the enforcement of such standards. The fact that such machinery is emerging is one among many signs that a sense of professional responsibility is taking shape."

WELCOMES DELEGATES

Mr. Barnett opened his address by welcoming delegates from the 11 constituent provincial organizations, representing 250 teachers.

He remarked that "probably in no other country with which Canada may reasonably be compared is educational thought and endeavor so completely divided up into separate and incoordinate units." It was not necessary to embrace the extreme spirit of nationalism to deplore this situation. "There is such a thing as a wholesome and desirable national spirit, and there is no good reason why its cultivation in our educational work should not enrich our lives."

Reciprocity in the placement of graduates from the various training schools in the provinces was called for. Students should be encouraged to take at least one course in Canadian education so that a mathematics teacher, "trained let us say in Alberta, would be qualified for employment in an Ontario high school."

WHEAT VALUES GIVEN BOOST ON WEDNESDAY

Canadian Press

WINNIPEG, Man., July 29.—Higher prices were obtained on the wheat market today due to firmness at Chicago. Corn on the American market went upward and wheat here followed its trend, advancing 1¼ to 1⅛ cents with July closing at 54⅞, October 56¾ and December 57⅞ to 58. Trading was not very active and mostly local in character.

The rise in Chicago corn was due to extreme heat in the grain-growing country of the United States and also to the damage caused by grasshopper plagues. The firmness was also apparent in cash wheat and coarse grains here although trading was quiet.

STOCK MARKET DRIVEN DOWN TO LOW LEVELS

Associated Press

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 29.—The stock market was driven to the lowest levels since the middle of June today by the adverse dividend and earnings announcements of the largest steel maker. Trading quickened considerably from recent low levels, but was in limited volume, judged by standards of recent years.

U. S. Steel, common, opened five points lower, then extended its loss to more than seven, in response to the unexpectedly sharp reduction in the annual dividend rate to $4 from $7. Bethlehem Steel dropped more than five points to a new low for the present stock. Nickel Plate, trading for the first time this week, appeared more than nine points lower. Auburn lost more than nine points and miscellaneous issues declining about as much as six included American Telephone, American Can, Allied Chemical, Eastman, New York Central, Westinghouse Electric, North American, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and New Haven. General Electric and International Telephone lost two.

Despite the deepened gloom over the unprofitable state of the basic steel industry, the weekly steel trade reviews reported a moderate quickening of steel mill activity, an unusual development for midsummer.

Money was a little firmer, presumably reflecting the month-end requirements. Call money held officially at 1½ per cent, with virtually no concessions in the outside market.

EDMONTON STOCKYARDS, July 29—Receipts: Cattle, 47; calves, 22; hogs, 301; sheep, 6.

Trading today is beginning to show a little more life and salesmen are finding it easier to move their offerings. The market, however, is as yet none too good. Sales up to noon are holding about steady with yesterday's close, with very few butcher cattle of quality arriving.

The calf market is holding steady and firm and there have been some exceptionally choice offerings.

Up to noon there were no hogs sold. Buyers were bidding $6.75 for carloads, fed and watered, and $6 for local bacons, selects bringing a premium of 50c per hundred and butchers being discounted 50c per hundred.

There were insufficient sheep to make or establish a market.

Winnipeg Letter

By the N. Bawlf Grain Co. Ltd.

WINNIPEG, July 29. — Liverpool cables for 2:15 p.m., easing off a trifle caused our market to lose some of the opening advance. Figures first moved up ½ to ¾c but the market established itself only fractionally higher. Operations in the first half hour or so were light and practically all local, and were purely routine.

Seaboard houses were quiet, as overnight export business was reported to be very thin. The bullish Canadian government report had no special effect in view of the lack of outside interest in the market but close observers said the market was in shape to show improvement.

After the first hour some improvement was recorded, prices going ⅞ to 1c over the previous close. Sentiment turned more friendly, with commission houses and locals lending support and the market being helped by grasshoppers and damage reports in South Dakota and Chicago corn climbing 5c up. The grains were fairly well through the middle stages.

There was no noticeable improvement in the export situation. One interest reported fair sales to New York exporters, but whether the stuff was for export or not could not be ascertained. Local spreading was made up of selling the July against buying of the October with there being some selling of our October against purchases of Chicago September.

In the late and final stages of the market the feature was the tightness of the July which led to figures holding most of the gains. A few minutes from the bell Chicago July corn moved up 10 cents a bushel. Our market closed around the top levels, the range being 1¼ to 1⅛ cents up.

Cash—Although there was a better tone to the cash wheat demand, there was not much on offer. Spreads showed no particular changes. Overnight export business was reported as very moderate. Only the odd sales from time to time were made in flour, the situation continuing dull.

Coarse—A little export business in oats and some enquiry for barley by shippers were the features of the coarse grains. Rye and flax were neglected, but cash prices were firm as there was practically nothing on offer.

The RECORD SPEAKS for ITSELF

Throughout the length and breadth of Canada, Turret's are making new records for popularity because of their outstanding quality.

After all, nothing can replace good, honest tobacco; grown and ripened right out in the field under Nature's own sunlight—nothing artificial about that—and the high quality is "inbred."

BLACKY THE CROW DISCOVERS EGGS

Blacky the Crow is fond of eggs. In this he is a great deal like other people—Farmer Brown's Boy, for instance. But as Blacky cannot keep hens as Farmer Brown's Boy does, he is obliged to steal eggs or else go without. If you come right down to plain everyday truth I suppose Blacky isn't so far wrong when he says that eggs which the hens lay belong to the hens and that he, Blacky, has just as much right to take them as has Farmer Brown's Boy. He quite overlooks the fact that Farmer Brown's Boy feeds the biddies and takes the eggs as pay. Anyway, that is what Farmer Brown's Boy says, but I do not know whether or not the biddies understand it that way.

From That Instant Blacky the Crow Began To Scheme and Plan To Get One Or Both Of Those Eggs.

So Blacky the Crow cannot see why he should not help himself to an egg when he gets the chance. He doesn't get the chance very often to steal eggs from the hens, because usually they lay their eggs in the henhouse, and Blacky is too suspicious to venture inside. The eggs he does get are mostly those of his neighbors in the Green Forest and the Old Orchard. But once in a great while some foolish hen will make a nest outside the hen house somewhere, and if Blacky happens to find it the black scamp watches every minute he can spare from other mischief for a chance to steal an egg.

Now, Blacky knows just what a rogue Farmer Brown thinks he is, and for this reason Blacky is very careful about approaching Farmer Brown or any other man until he has made sure that he runs no risk of being shot. Blacky knows quite as well as any one what a gun looks like. He also knows that without a terrible gun there is little Farmer Brown or anyone else can do to him. So when he sees Farmer Brown out in his fields Blacky often will fly right over him and shout "Caw car, car, ca-a-w!" in the most provoking way, and Farmer Brown's Boy insists that he has seen Blacky wink when he was doing it.

But Blacky doesn't do anything of this kind around the buildings of Farmer Brown. You see, he has learned that there are doors in buildings and windows, and out of one of these a terrible gun may bang at any time. So though he has suspected that whatever Farmer Brown's Boy would have once done he would not now try to harm him. Blacky is naturally cautious and takes no chances. So when he comes spying around Farmer Brown's house and barn he does it when he is quite sure that no one is about, and he makes sure that he makes no noise about it. First, he sits in a tall tree, from which he can watch Farmer Brown's home. Then he is quite sure that the way is clear he flies over to the Old Orchard, and from there he inspects the farmyard, never once making a sound. If he is quite sure that no one is about he sometimes drops down into the henyard and helps himself to corn if there happens to be any there.

It was on one of these silent visits that Blacky spied something which he couldn't forget. It was a box just inside the henhouse door. In the box was some hay, and in that hay he was sure that he had seen an egg. In fact, he was sure that he saw two eggs there. He might not have noticed them but for the fact that a hen had jumped down from that box, making a terrible fuss. She didn't seem frightened, but terribly proud. What under the sun she had to be proud about, Blacky couldn't understand, but he didn't stay to find out. The noise she was making made him nervous. He was afraid that it would bring some one to find out what was going on. So he spread his black wings and flew away as silently as he had come.

It was as he was flying away that he saw those eggs. You see, as he rose into the air he managed to pass that open door in such a way that he could glance in. That one glance was enough. You know Blacky's eyes are very sharp. He saw the hay in the box and the two eggs in the hay, and that was enough for him. From that instant Blacky the Crow began to scheme and plan to get one or both of those eggs. It seemed to him that he never, never had wanted anything quite so much, and he was sure that he would not and could not be happy until he succeeded.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

ONE QUART OF MILK DAILY IN ANY FORM IS ENOUGH FOR CHILD

Our goal in child training is to move the child from one stage of development to the next as rapidly as he is able. This is not forcing; it is just taking advantage of natural growth and development, and making those changes which will be most interesting and acceptable to the child at each period.

It is certain that if we hold a baby at some level of development too long, we find him stubborn and resistant to change, while if we begin early and work up slowly to the change he accepts it. We all know that if the baby has had a cup for water and orange juice from the time he could sit up, or has been allowed to handle a spoon and "puddle about" with it at nine months or sooner, he will be able to drink beautifully at one year and make good headway with spooning up his solid foods. We also know other babies not so trained must be fed, and demand all milk by bottles. It is largely a matter of patient training and in initiating this training early.

THREE MEALS ADVANTAGEOUS

This partly answers Mrs. M. M., who wanted to know the advantages of a three-meal-a-day schedule. The advantages are threefold: when the baby can patiently wait five hours for his meal, and can eat a larger diet which will satisfy him that long, he has moved upward toward definitely adult standards. The advantage to the mother is obvious, for meals are coincident with the family meals—an advantage that should appeal to any busy mother.

Mrs. M. M. also asks: "How much milk should a baby of ten months old, weighing twenty-two pounds, take? If he gets only three meals a day, how shall this be distributed? What is the usual measurement of a cup of milk? I never see anything definite on this."

QUART OF MILK DAILY

Thirty-two ounces of milk is one quart, and furnishes four eight-ounce feedings. The usual feeding bottle holds eight ounces, and the ordinary measuring cup the same amount. Coffee or tea cups fall below this standard. Any baby over twenty pounds in weight should have a quart of milk daily. If he is under ten or eleven months, dilute the milk with water, add some sugar and put it into five bottles. Otherwise, four feedings are the usual amount.

Most babies of ten months still get four eight-ounce feedings. Recently I advised three for a particular baby who had no appetite for four meals. Usually 6-10-2-6 is the interval, and eight ounces of whole milk each time would be the right amount.

On the three meal schedule the baby will have one cup of milk at each meal, and the other cup can be used in cooking the solid foods. Cereal is more appetizing when cooked in milk—one cup can be used that way or in milk pudding or custard. Reserve one quart daily for baby and you'll not find it difficult to use it, even if not all of it is taken as a beverage.

My leaflet, "Week's Menu For the Child from One to Two Years", will help you to plan the meals after the baby is past infancy. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for this leaflet to the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

A person's pulse rate over a period of time may vary 10 to 15 beats a minute without causing particular reason for considering him abnormal.

WELL, GENTLEMEN, I BELIEVE THE TIME HAS ARRIVED TO SHEAR US A FEW LAMBS—AS YOU KNOW, MILLIONS OF SMALL STOCK HOLDERS NOW HOLD SHARES OF OUR VARIOUS COMPANIES, MOSTLY ON MARGIN—
OUR COURSE IS CLEAR—BY DUMPING A FEW THOUSAND SHARES ON THE MARKET CONFIDENCE WILL BE DESTROYED AND THE POOR SUCKERS WILL ALL TRY TO SELL AT ONCE—WE SELL AT THE TOP, THEN BUY AT THE BOTTOM AND BE READY TO DO IT ALL OVER AGAIN, AS SOON AS THE POOR PUBLIC HAS FORGOTTEN AND THE SUCKERS HAVE SAVED ENOUGH OF THEIR WAGES TO MAKE IT WORTH OUR WHILE—

Edmonton Public School Board Holds Last Session for Summer Months

APPOINTMENTS DEALT WITH ON TUESDAY

Trustees Will Not Meet Agein Until Late in August

Staff appointments under the heads of temporary appointments, additions to alternate appointments, high school appointments and provisional teachers was the last item dealth with at the session of the Edmonton Public school board in the Civic Block Tuesday evening. This was the last meeting of the board for the summer months. The next meeting for the opening of school in the fall will be held the last week in August.

Several gruelling sessions featured the meetings of the board during the last month, and Monday saw the longest session of the year when the members sat in conference until 1:30 a.m. to discuss the case of Percy S. Bailey, former principal of the Edmonton Technical school, in connection with a report submitted to the board by the supervisor of Technical schools in the province with regard to the situation existing at present in the Edmonton Technical school.

BIG RUSSIAN INVASION CARROT PEST SPREADS

Some curiously interesting facts are associated with the work of the Entomological Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture and among these is included the steady spread to the West and South of the carrot rust fly (Psila rosae Fab.). This insect has been known in Eastern Canada for nearly half a century. It is spreading slowly and has reached the Lake Superior region. The insect is of Russian origin.

PRUNE BLACK KNOT NOW

Early June is one of the essential periods of the year, particularly in Ontario, when plum orchards should be carefully pruned to remove all trace of Black Knot, the Division of Botany of the Dominion Department of Agriculture advise. At this season the knots are yellowish-brown in color and the summer spores which spread the disease have not yet matured.

Edmonton delegates to the Canadian Legion conference at Niagara Falls, August 31 and September 1 and 2, will be W. J. Hill, Dominion representative of Alberta, W. A. Irwin, W. T. Rice, and Captain George L. Hudson, Alberta Provincial Organizer. Principal topics of discussion at the meet will be unemployment relief and pensions adjustment.

Edmonton Merchant Announces Extensive Expansion Program

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

MONTREAL, July 29.—Taking over increased space in the Monarch theatre building, Edmonton, M. C. Robinson, Canada's men's clothing expert and head of the chain of Robinson's Upstairs Clothing Shops across Canada, announced today that he will greatly expand his present facilities in the Alberta city.

"Looking out of an hotel window in Edmonton, before the Macdonald hotel was built, I had visions of Edmonton becoming the cosmopolitan city of a country so rich in nature's wealth that it was past human comprehension to even realize. It occurred to me then that Edmonton, key city to the glorious northwest, was a logical location for another link in the great Robinson chain of Upstairs Clothing Shops from Coast to Coast," said Mr. Robinson today.

"I then made up my mind to grow up with Edmonton. I could not get the location I really wanted at that time—I was handicapped from the beginning, and it was not until now, after securing the lease on the properties that I wanted, that I am able to announce to the public of Edmonton that Robinson will give them, for their kind patronage over a period of a dozen years, a store that I have always wanted in Edmonton."

"You know," continued Mr. Robinson, "my playtimes consist mainly of fishing and hunting, and I have spent so many glorious days in the vicinity of Edmonton—so much good fishing and hunting—and so many more hours of sunshine, that I do not see why the publicity manager of that city should not advertise the fact that you can read a newspaper on your verandah at as late as 10 and 11 in the evening, by natural light, a fact that few people know.

"I certainly see a great future for Edmonton, a city so located cannot help but be the hub of the northwest.

"My contemporary merchants there, I find, are much better than they are in other cities. They have that indefinable western spirit that is so admirable, and I am quite sure that they will welcome this expansion of mine, even when most firms are retrenching. I honestly believe that with intensive effort Edmonton will very much surprise other present proud cities of the west."

Mr. Robinson has been in Edmonton for over 12 years and it is a good sign that with his keen foresight (and those who know him know that he has that able faculty), he sees fit to expand his business in Edmonton the way he is doing. It is a good omen for Edmonton.

Eighteen countries have a total of 47,000,000 workers with unemployment insurance.

CLOVER BAR CELEBRATION IS NOW ORGANIZED

Old Timers Will Gather For Fiftieth Anniversary

With Hon. Frank Oliver billed as the principal speaker of the occasion and a buffalo barbecue one of the main events, old time pioneer residents of the Clover Bar and surrounding districts are preparing to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Clover Bar on August 7. The celebration will take the form of a big picnic at the farm of Allan Gillies and old-timers from all over Northern and Central Alberta will be present.

Thos. H. Clover came to Edmonton in December, 1859, and the following spring set up his "rocker", and began his search for gold. Many gravel bars in the Saskatchewan river were worked by Hudson Bay men, and others, but the most profitable one was Clover's bar, two and one-half miles north of the present post office. Gradually the name Clover Bar came to be applied to the district on both sides of the river, and was generally recognized in 1881. Through the efforts of George A. Simpson of the Edmonton and Saskatchewan Land Co and others, a post office was secured. Different names for the new office were suggested, but Clover Bar won out. The chief superintendent of Postal Service, Ottawa, is the source of some definite and very interesting information.

The office was established June 1, 1884, with George A. Simpson as first Postmaster, and located in Section 6, Township 63, Range 25, west of the 4th meridian. The mail was delivered fortnightly from Calgary and Fort Saskatchewan, a distance of 218 miles. Messrs. Leison and Scott performed this service from May, 1884 to October 31, 1887, at a cost of $11,100. The office served both sides of the river as a ferry was established near Clover Bar.

For four years the office was on the north side of the river, the Postmaster being Chas. H. Stewart. The following are the names and the dates of appointment of the various Postmasters: Geo. A. Simpson, June 1, 1884; St. George Jellett, Aug. 1, 1888; Chas. H. Stewart, April 1, 1890; Wm. Keith, May 1, 1894; J. S. Doze, July 1, 1898; J. D. Drysdale, April 1, 1901; Mrs. J. D. Drysdale, Feb. 15, 1908; Fred Daly, Jan. 7, 1910; E. B. Palmer, March 20, 1913; Fred Daly, March 20, 1914.

Gyros Discuss Air Show Preparations

Members of the Gyro club devoted their entire weekly luncheon in the Macdonald, Tuesday, to the consideration of air show affairs, for this is the last hour before the Gyros go over the top in an effort to put over the big show in a big way.

Last minute instructions were fired at their squads by team captains, reports were made on the ticket sales, and fresh tickets were dispensed to those who needed them, following which the final details with regards to gates and duties assigned Wednesday evening, were dealt with.

HIGHLAND GAMES TO BREAK RECORD

Entries This Year Are Larger Than Ever

Hoot mon! D'ye ken the Hieland Games wull be wi' us soon, an' wi' four times the number of entries from Calgary and Winnipeg this year, and twice the number from Seattle where the Highland athletes are very strong, indications are that this year's Grand Highland Games and women's provincial championships at Edmonton will break all records.

The games will start on Saturday, August 2 and will be opened by His Honor Lieutenant-Governor W. L. Walsh. Provision has been made for the games to be carried on regardless of the weather, and in the event of rain the competitions will be held in the Arena building.

As usual the Sunday open-air service on the grounds of the parliament building will be one of the features of the gathering. Last year over 2,000 people attended this service which is carried out in the same manner as the Banff Highland gathering service conducted at the Devil's Cauldron by Ralph Connor.

Massed pipe bands will lead the parade to the parliament building grounds and all participants in the games and a large contingent of spectators will attend, dressed in Highland costumes. The service will be conducted by Rev. Mr. McLeod, the parade starting from Howard avenue on Sunday afternoon.

CAUSES OF FAILURE

In an extensive survey of raspberry plantations in British Columbia six principal reasons for decreased yields were determined. These are: (1) Poor management where the farm owner devotes only a part of his time to fruit production; (2) the presence of diseases of which cane blight and mosaic are the most important; (3) the presence of insects and animals of which crown borers and moles are the most important; (4) depletion or lack of soil fertility; (5) winter injury; (6) poor cultural practices.
